

Kelowna Building Exceeds $300,000 In Nine Months

Total for First Nine Months of This Year Reaches Huge Total of $329,000—Biggest Building Boom in History of Kelowna Over Past Twenty-five Years—D. H. Rattenbury Estate Starts Construction of New Frame and Stucco Apartment Building at Corner of Bernard and St. Paul—Will Contain Fourteen Apartments on Two Storeys

Hope to Reach $350,000 Permit Values this Year

BUILDING permits for the first nine months of the year have now reached the huge total of $329,000.50, indicating that Kelowna is definitely on the upswing. Included in this big sum, is the Kelowna Hospital building, with a building permit value of $120,848, the new addition to the Kelowna schools, which cost in all some $45,000 and a long list of residences which have been built or are under construction. This total far exceeds any previous building record in the city of Kelowna for the past quarter century.

September building permits, augmented by the Kelowna Hospital Society building, reached a total of $151,283 which is by far the biggest month of 1939, to date. It is confidently expected that the total for the entire year will exceed $350,000, although most of the new building activity is concluded for this year.

Work on the new apartment block at the corner of St. Paul street and Bernard avenue by the D. H. Rattenbury estate has now commenced and the building permit is $17,580. This is the second largest permit of the past month.

This new apartment will contain fourteen suites on the ground and first floors. The building is of frame construction with stucco finish and includes a number of bachelor suites. At the front the width is thirty-six feet and at the rear the building is 44 feet wide. The depth is 86 feet.

The building will be erected on a concrete foundation with a furnace and laundry room in the rear. Its construction, according to the specifications, is of a solid nature with heavy joists. The interior partitions are so constructed that sound will be deadened. The halls and stairways are of Gyproc lathe and plaster for fire protection.

A fan system will be used for ventilating while electric stoves will be installed in the apartments.

Repair Fire Damage
Repairs to the fire damage to the building at the west end of Bernard avenue occupied by Sharriff Bros. will cost $1,900, according to the building permit taken out at the city office. Three new residences at a cost of nearly $10,000 were planned last month.

Following are the building permits for the month of September:
W. J. B. Gueard, woodshed and garage, $70; T. G. Hazell, addition to residence, $750; Emslie & Mitchell, corrugated iron shed, $75; T. M. Stanbridge, additions and repairs, $890; Milton A. Johnson, residence, $2,800; W. Fray, residence, $4,000; Miss H. R. Hughes-Games, residence, $2,000; Kelowna Hospital Society, new hospital unit, $120,848; E. A. Day and Mrs. M. Lequime, repair fire damage, $1,900; Estate of D. H. Rattenbury, apartment building, $17,580; total, $151,283.

SILVER STAR ROAD FUND HAS SURPLUS

"That road is built and there is a surplus of $331 in the bank to provide for grading it again next season."

With this statement President Edward Clarke, of the Vernon Board of Trade, enthusiastically pointed to the success of the Silver Star Scenic Highway committee, at the dinner meeting in the Chateau Cafe at Vernon last Friday night.

"That accomplishment speaks for itself," the president added in referring to the work of Chairman A. E. Tombs, Vice-Chairman J. T. Mutrie, and other members of the committee who were Messrs. Poole, Fred Harwood, Edlin, Morrow, Wilde, Whitehead, Fleming, R. Haggie, and Dr. Courcier.

Understanding Between Producer and Consumer Will Popularize Apples

Miss Katharine Middleton, Home Economics Editor of Winnipeg Tribune Speaks to Rotary Club on Education of Consumer

"With an understanding between the producer and the consumer, you can make your apples as well known as other fruits, such as oranges. People are eating more fruits and vegetables and they need to eat more as they contain a greater amount of vitamins than fish and meats. Building of good families and good nutrition is health insurance."

Such was the message heard by the Rotary Club of Kelowna on Tuesday afternoon at the regular luncheon delivered by Miss Katharine Middleton, home economics editor of the Winnipeg Tribune. Miss Middleton is on an inspection visit to British Columbia and is becoming better acquainted with the problems of the primary producers and the various facts concerning their produce so that she will be in a better position to inform

No Solution to Problem of Marketing Surplus Prunes and Onions Has Been Found with Dominion Help Still Out

Kelowna Board of Trade and B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. Dispatch Further Wires to Hon. W. J. Asselstine for Provincial Government Assistance—Agricultural Supply Board Will Not Consider any Assistance at This Time—Board of Trade Takes Angle That Wastage in War Time Must Be Eliminated

DESPITE every effort which has been made, there is still no solution to the problem of disposing of surplus prunes and onions which are prevalent in the Okanagan Valley, it is stated. The Dominion government, through the department of agriculture, has turned a cold shoulder on any suggestions from the Okanagan that industry should be provided with an outlet for this surplus in a processed form, despite the fact that the food will probably be valuable for army needs.

O. L. JONES IS AT HELM OF WAR COMMITTEE

No Definite Plan of Campaign Decided as to Full Activities of Kelowna Civilian War Activities Committee

At the first meeting of the executive of the Kelowna Civilian War Activities Committee, held at the board of trade rooms on Tuesday evening, Mayor O. L. Jones was chosen chairman of this central group with Rev. W. W. McPherson as vice-chairman and E. W. Barton as secretary. R. G. Ruthertford was elected treasurer.

No definite campaign was outlined as a result of this meeting but the executive went on record as being in favor of a campaign for funds to be carried on about the middle of November. A further meeting is to be held shortly to map out the campaign. In the meantime a general meeting to organize the Kelowna branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society is being called by the pro tem secretary, E. W. Barton, for Thursday evening, October 12, at the board of trade room. It is anticipated that the character will be available here by that time.

This big annual carnival commences today, Thursday at the Scout hall and will continue tomorrow and Saturday. Huge crowds are expected to patronize this event. Twenty per cent of the net proceeds are to be turned over to the Kelowna Civilian War Activity Committee for its general funds and the balance of the proceeds will be devoted to making homes more cheerful this Christmas by supplying them with hampers.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, at nine, ten and eleven o'clock three tickets will be drawn from the big container which holds the car tickets. These twenty-seven tickets will be placed in a separate container and at 11:45 o'clock Saturday night the winning ticket will be drawn. The draw for the tickets will be Turn to page 6, story 4

Late War News

OTTAWA—Vancouver's chief of police, Brig. W. W. Foster, recently cleared of twelve charges laid by Mayor Felle, will take charge of a new Canadian war department. He will be director of auxiliary services, formed to utilize the services of veterans of the previous war who can not go overseas. He will also have charge of welfare services, such as recreational, educational and religious activities of the troops, both in Canada and abroad.

LONDON—While the Allies were waiting suspiciously for Hitler to give the terms of his Nazi peace to the Reichstag tomorrow in Berlin, Stalin was given control of the Riga, Dohna and Finland gulfs by Estonia and Latvia. Pacts giving him power to build naval bases on the islands of Dagoe and Oesel and the mainland port of Baltisk were ratified by Estonia exactly an hour before a six-day limit expired.

The "accord" allowed him to put 10,000 more troops on these bases than the provisional agreement of last week which restricted the number to 25,000. Having disposed of Estonia, the Soviet is reported also to have completed an agreement last night with Latvia giving Soviet troops, transit rights across the country to the Baltic port of Libau, as well as special naval facilities. Rumor, entirely unconfirmed, said that Moscow was now making a gesture in the direction of Afghanistan.

Hitler was understood to have considered his Friday speech to the Reichstag so important that he called off a flight he had planned to the captured city of Warsaw today. Preparations had been made there for a spectacular reception. Intrusion of Italy, which Wednesday officially announced it would take no initiative towards submitting Hitler peace terms to the Allies, is claimed to have influenced cancellation of the Warsaw flight plans.

Biggest Week's Movement Since Tree Fruits Organized Reported With First Shipments of Macs

Total of 650 Cars Were Shipped Out of Okanagan Valley Last Week with Initial Movement of McIntosh Red Apples—Repeat Orders Starting to Come In—Trade Seems Satisfied with Pack and Quality—Peach Deal Is Cleaned up and Only Pears Left Are D'Anjous

DESPITE the heavy movement of McIntosh apples on the opening day of the fight on Wednesday, September 27, business continued surprisingly steady for the balance of the week and shipments from Wednesday until Saturday, in straight cars and in mixtures reached about 550 cars, Dave McNair, sales manager for B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., the single selling agency reported on Wednesday. With all other commodities, a total movement of 630 cars was recorded for last week, which is the heaviest movement from the Okanagan since the single selling agency went into operation in June, it is believed.

"As is to be expected, it was very quiet at the start of this week," continued Dave McNair, "although an occasional Mac order is commencing to come in again as repeat orders."

"First arrivals have met with a favorable reception by the trade and the trade is well pleased with the pack and quality of the apples. They are moving freely at destination."

All grades were boosted five cents per box on Monday, thus indicating the satisfaction with which the first shipments were received.

Turning to other commodities, Mr. McNair observed that wealthy movement is much slower but some supplies are continuing to go out. The prune story is still a sad one, but the surplus is now reduced to 8,200 packages or slightly more than 700 tons, out of the 330,000 packages delivered to the packing houses in the Okanagan.

The original estimate was in the neighborhood of 300,000 packages. "Despite our best efforts it has been impossible to bring to a conclusion any arrangement for processing of these prunes although our efforts are being continued," states the sales manager. Last of the big crop of peaches left the Okanagan yesterday, about one Turn to page 6, story 5

ADVERTISING TO BE DISCUSSED AT CALGARY

McNair and Loyd Left Last Night to Hear of Dominion Plans for Apple Campaign

A. K. Loyd and Dave McNair, of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., left on Wednesday night for Calgary to meet Mr. Canger of the Dominion department of agriculture and Mr. Schofield, manager of Canadian National Advertisers and discuss with them the proposed Dominion advertising apple campaign. It will be on the basis of this discussion and subsequent parleys within the next week that the growers own campaign here in the Okanagan Valley will be decided.

Some weeks ago B.C. Fruit Board and B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., met and finally appointed Cockfield-Brown advertising agency to handle an advertising campaign which would cost in the neighborhood of $45,000. The Dominion government has now decided to spend $40,000 in advertising B.C. apples on the prairie, but it will depend largely on the nature of the advertising to what extent the Okanagan growers will participate, it is said.

Shippers' Association To Decide Now as to Division of Subsidy

Shippers Agree that Subsidy Should be Proportioned on Basis of Sizes, Grades and Varieties According to Agreement with Dominion Government—Will Not Ship Cee Grade According to Previous Arrangement—Advertising Program for B.C. Apples Likely to Reach $40,000 Figure—Canadian Horticultural Council is Praised for its Extensive Setup and Quick Action in Face of Emergency

McGuire Approved as Advisory Board Member

HOW best the government subsidy providing for the purchase of 500,000 boxes of B.C. apples can be handled by the B.C. shippers so that a fair and equitable adjustment can be arrived at now, provided there is a surplus of small sized apples at March 31, 1940, was the main business of a meeting of the Federated Shippers Association at the board of trade room in Kelowna on Wednesday morning. On March 31, if there is a surplus of certain grades, sizes and varieties, most of which would ordinarily sell on the export market, then the Dominion government will purchase these apples, up to 500,000 boxes, for $1.05 per box. This figure represents sixty-five per cent of the three-year average price, it is stated.

E. W. HAMBER TO VISIT

Lieut.-Governor E. W. Hamber has signified his intention of participating in the opening pheasant shooting in the Okanagan and will attend the annual Fruit Board and Game Protective Association on October 16.

Major M. V. McGuire returned to the Okanagan from Ottawa last week-end and attended the Wednesday morning meeting. He had previously met members of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., the B.C. Okanagan and will attend the shippers' association executive on Monday and had been confirmed in his appointment to the advisory board set up in Ottawa to be connected with the Dominion's crop control plan.

Copies of the agreement between the Dominion government and the shippers' association were circulated among the shippers this week. This draft was approved both at the Monday and Wednesday meetings and provides that certain sizes and varieties which are still unsold either on the export or domestic markets will be taken over by the government.

Varieties included
These varieties consist of McIntosh, Jonathan, Delicious, Newtown, Winesap, Rome Beauty, Spitzenberg, Stayman, and Grimes Golden, all varieties which are exported under normal conditions. The sizes are chiefly in the small range, although there are some sizes which are not exported.

Most of the Major McGuire report on Wednesday was covered by The Courier last week. He gave no definite indication as to what the Dominion government wishes to do with the Okanagan apples once they are purchased next spring. He made one or two guesses but had no concrete information.

Regarding the advertising appropriation which the Dominion government proposes, Major McGuire stated that B.C.'s share will probably be $40,000. Ontario and Quebec will have about $60,000 spent to advertise their apples and Nova Scotia about $15,000. Another $30,000 of the fund which had been set aside for the "Canada Calling" advertising program in Great Britain, now abandoned because of war conditions, will probably be used for national advertising he indicated.

The speaker intimated that there is every likelihood that towards the end of the deal the Ontario and Quebec produce will be cleaned up to such an extent that Okanagan supplies will reach the Montreal market. Consumers and distributors will be informed of the patriotic angle in this advertising campaign, so that home grown fruits will be eaten in preference to foreign fruits.

Major McGuire praised the usefulness of the Canadian Horticultural Council, which was so set up that it could appear before the government Turn to page 6, story 6

Be Calm in Face of Price Advances Retailer Urges His Customers

Many Increases in Price Only Caused by Normal Trend of Production—Sugar Shortage is Certain for Limited Time

"If you are publishing any news about grocery prices, advise the people to be quiet," declared one Kelowna retailer to The Courier on Wednesday. "It is to their advantage to do so for if they continue normal buying and do not become excited over price advances then they will give everyone along the line a chance to absorb the differences and readjust themselves as changes are made."

According to information obtained on Wednesday, there is a sugar shortage in Canada and the supply is limited. In some areas at the coast stores are limiting their customers to two pounds apiece. Here, the general limitation is ten pounds.

Due to the tendency of some householders to stock up on sugar to an abnormal extent there will be a shortage of supplies. But it is expected that there will be a boatload of raw sugar arrive in Vancouver shortly which will change the situation. Also, the sugar beet factories on the prairies will begin operation shortly. In the meantime, evidently due to the shortage, the price of sugar is said to have advanced fifty cents per hundredweight. Stories of Kelowna persons who loaded sugar at the first scare have made their rounds here, and it is said that one household stored away 600 pounds of sugar, contrary to the pleading of government officials.

Imported Goods Up

With ocean freight rates increased, the addition of war risk insurance and the drop in the Canadian dollar value, dates, raisins, currants and all imported nuts will go up in price. Due to higher ocean freight rates and the increase in price of tin and steel, canned goods are also expected to increase in value. Prices have been so low in the past couple of years when stocks were heavy that even without the war scare canned goods were bound to advance, it is said. Old stocks of canned peas in Canada are depleted and the long, dry spell clear across the country was detrimental to the pea crop this year. Therefore, the canned pea pack will be considerably reduced. The corn pack is way below last year, as well. "There is no reason for any advance in flour prices," one retailer stated, "and flour is really at a lower figure than it was at this time in 1938. We have the biggest crop of wheat for years in Canada and there will not be a big percentage exported, so I cannot see any reason for a price advance."

Cooperation Necessary

While it is true that the Dominion Government has agreed to spend some fifty thousand dollars advertising British Columbia apples in the four western provinces, this must not be construed as an indication that the Okanagan growers may lessen their own effort in this regard.

Sales of apples must be greatly increased this year if the crop is to be sold. The government's effort is a gesture of cooperation with the local growers who this year are hard pressed to find a market sufficiently large to take care of their crop. It is intended to supplement and not replace the growers' own effort.

An advertising program much larger than that provided for by the government is necessary to increase the sales to the desired point. This has been recognized by the government in its decision to assist the growers in this matter. The gesture by the government is a generous one and Okanagan growers should show their appreciation by pressing home their own efforts to the utmost.

While no announcement has been made as to the intention of Tree Fruits Ltd. as regards advertising, it is presumed that plans are already well advanced to make at least as great an effort as was made last year. To leave the government to carry the whole burden would be unsportsmanlike—more, it would be tantamount to defeating the government's effort by failing to give the support required to make it effective in increasing the purchasing of our apples by the people on the prairies and at the coast.

A "let George do it" attitude as regards advertising on the part of local distributors this year would be falling down on the job and failing to take full advantage of assistance given by the government.

On The Home Front

Canadian people realize that the country will be here after the war as before, and that the state of its economy will depend upon the energy applied in the meantime to ordinary vocations. Although the war effort takes precedence, other useful services should be carried on with the utmost vigor, that national production and earnings may be affected to a minimum extent by the requirements of the treasury. Wealth is created by work. Money is circulated, as a rule, proportionate to wealth. Every indication is that the nation's buying power will be fitted greatly by the production and sale of war supplies, but the ordinary citizen on the home front can do much to prevent a slump when this is over by proceeding about his business as usual, working harder if possible and buying what he needs as he needs it. It is not improbable that the end of the war will see the country with many new permanent industries, a development made possible by the impetus of war business, the availability of resources which sooner or later will be taken up by investors, and by influx of population.

It is not to be assumed that this war will be followed like the last by an orgy of reckless spending to be paid for by a collapse. The experience will be used to avoid a repetition. If the people are wise they will profit from it to avoid extremes neither hoarding nor squandering, but proceeding with the knowledge that fundamental economic laws have a way of striking a balance.

The budget address given recently to Parliament says:

"We can lighten the burden imposed by this real sacrifice if we expand our total employment and production. To the extent that we can put our unemployed men and equipment to work producing what we need for war, we will have to divert less resources away from normal uses. In many cases we may need to use on war work specialized men and equipment which are already employed, but we can cut down the real costs involved in doing so if we can replace them in their normal work by somewhat less skilled labor or less specialized equipment which may now be unemployed. We can reduce them further by developing more skilled labor, by better organization, and by more effective utilization of all our resources. Conditions of war will not only demand, but probably also make possible, the full utilization of our manpower and equipment. The urgent demands of ourselves and our Allies for supplies of all kinds and the will of a united people to win the war, even at the cost of some regimentation which might not be acceptable to a democratic people in peacetime, will provide that impetus to expansion of production and capital investment which has been lacking in these recent years of uncertainty and fear."

The war budget is predicated on increased production and earnings. The profits tax is being adjusted to take cognizance of the nature of the business affected with a view to creating the least possible disturbance to extraordinary and normal activities. Far from proceeding on the assumption that business will be destroyed, the minister of finance is anticipating substantial more-than-temporary improvements.

The public should act accordingly by keeping calm through whatever adjustments and changes take place. If prices for commodities go up it should be remembered that an excessive demand has something to do with this, and that if prices become exorbitant they are checked by official control and increased production. The people can serve their own interests best by arming on business as normally as possible, buying for their requirements as in peacetime and keeping their heads.

Curbing Subversive Elements

Canada must not be stabbed in the back by Nazis and Communists within her gates while she is waging a life and death struggle in cooperation with the Mother Country and her allies, against Nazis in Europe. It is essential to guard against treason, sedition, sabotage, and all subversive activities at home.

Nazis, Communists, and other propagandists and saboteurs who would undermine or overthrow constituted authority, destroy the morale of the people or wreck industries engaged in the production of vital war supplies, must be curbed. The problem, broadly speaking, falls within the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government which will probably take proper steps to combat unlawful associations and to control and suppress public utterances or writings of a seditious character.

It would be folly for the Nazis, Communists and other bodies spreading propaganda detrimental to the efficient prosecution of the war, to assume they are free to practise their sly and seditious arts. The Federal Cabinet has ample power under the war measures act to deal effectively with them, to throw them into concentration camps or to deport them if they engage in seditious conspiracies.

The Dominion Government plans to control and suppress public utterances, publications and writings which are detrimental to the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada. The people of this country will not tolerate tenderness for double-crossers at home while they are engaged in mortal combat with Hitlerism abroad.

Another Hitler Promise

Generalissimo Hitler announced he will win the war or die in the attempt. Since he cannot win, it is to be hoped this one promise he will keep.

He plunged into it the moment word came from Moscow that the Soviet-Nazi agreement had been ratified, after he had assured the German workman "he shall never see me clinking glasses or rubbing shoulders with them" (the Russians).

His high ambition it is said, was to be the world dictator who conquered by bluffing. Keeping other nations in a state of frightfulness was the groundwork for advance. While pretending to negotiate, he started bombing Poland. It was the last throw of the Hitler dice.

Nobody will anticipate that the previous skin of the ruthless bully will be exposed to enemy fire. True, it is reported he went up in a bomber to have a view of the Polish front but nobody believes he got anywhere within range of Polish guns. The egotist who built an isolated mountain home doesn't take chances.

In 1914 the Kaiser's slogan was "Me and Gott." Both have been exiled from Germany. The present junker head is only "Me." We cannot help wondering how his end will come, as his promises are worthless, and what will happen to the gang around him. We shouldn't care, of course, except that so many other lives depend on their departure.

No Canadian Fruit Should Be Lost

(Ottawa Citizen, September 14)

Every day of delay by the government to save the fruit crops in Canada may mean loss of hundreds of tons. Apples are falling to the ground where they will rot because the apple growers cannot afford to pick them. Buyers have to be found. In other years, the marketing of apples has been left to the law of supply and demand, but this so-called law has broken down under war conditions. Cargo ships cannot be obtained to carry the apples to markets abroad. Distribution is held up. The British demand would take every Canadian apple but the machinery of delivery is out of order.

Hon. James Gardiner, Dominion minister of agriculture, should be able to demonstrate to Hon. J. L. Ralston, minister of finance, that nothing would be lost, but the whole country would gain, by providing money from the national treasury to buy whatever perishable fruit crops there are for sale in Canada. The departmental committee on agricultural supplies could produce an emergency plan to hold the perishable fruits until they can be marketed.

It has been suggested that there should be a publicity campaign to inspire Canadian consumers to buy more fruit. Everything possible to increase the home market should be encouraged—including an assured supply of sugar over the retail shop counters to facilitate preserving by Canadian housewives. Church kitchens could perhaps be made available for this emergency work to save thousands of tons of Canadian fruits.

It would take time, however, to organize this voluntary community service across Canada. In the meanwhile there should be a general order without delay to allow deliveries of fruit to be taken through the established marketing channels, with government backing to assure that the buying is done before it is too late.

Women's Place » » »

EDITOR'S NOTE:—Appearing below is an editorial for the national magazine of the Federation of Women's Institutes of Canada, written by the president, Mrs. H. McGregor of Penticton. In it is expressed an appeal to women of the entire Dominion to sink all social, political and kindred differences in a common cause—the aiding of the Dominion in its present crisis.

Canada has declared war! To a member we believe that our country is right. Our motto for "Home and Country" carries with it obligations of service. The history of the Women's Institute gives ample proof of this. We have proclaimed our ideals through peace, war and reconstruction, every member sharing the responsibility. Once again our homes and country need the service of each and all to the last ounce of energy. As the great poet Longfellow has said:

"Let us then be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate,
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait."

The Federated Women's Institutes of Canada have not been unmindful that war services would be needed from them. We have been affiliated with a national committee of the voluntary registration of Canadian women. I have urged each province to conduct a survey to secure a record of the training and qualifications of every Institute member.

We only need to look at the women of Britain—how they have mobilized their physical, mental and spiritual strength for the country's need. We need only to recall that in the crisis of last September the Women's Institutes of Britain stood ready to help take the children from London in the event of evacuation; that this September, when this became a grim reality, they were ready.

Canada has taken her place as a nation. The urgency of the situation is such that executive consultation is not always possible. Knowing how willingly we gave our services in the last war, I had no hesitation in offering Miss Margaret Hyndman, K.C., chairman and organizer for the voluntary registration of women for service—the cooperation of our Institutes. Thus using machinery already in service so that the woman power of the Institute would be registered and tabulated into their various classes of endeavor and be made available to our government through national registration. Today we have contact through our magazine which will carry information of our activities.

Each provincial president and superintendent has been asked to place a list of provincial officers at the disposal of the provincial chairman of the F.W.I.C. Our earnestness for service in the last war lost many an Institute its identity. There is always overlapping with other organizations—for instance, the Red Cross. Its value is international and proven—cooperate fully but do not lose your parent organization.

Registration will reveal the trained quality of our membership, as nurses, teachers, dietitians, motorists and the vast army of home-makers whose talent may be food production, knitting and sewing—all are essential, "Keep the Home Fires Burning." "They Also Serve Who Only Stand and Wait."

The future holds all the demands to be made. Among them may be the housing of children, essential because of the vulnerability of Great Britain. The refugee plan may be ours to share our homes. Our vast country, even with its climatic changes, would be a haven for those who otherwise would be innocent victims of modern warfare.

The position of the British women's voluntary services in relation to the government may be set out in the following terms. Through the request made by the home secretary in his capacity as cabinet minister then responsible for the organization of measures of protection for the civilian population against air attack, the air raid precaution services came into being. Duties: To bring home to every householder what air attack might be. To make known to every householder what it can do to protect itself and help the community.

Since then the scope of the women's voluntary services has widened until it covers all branches of civil defence. The services it includes are: 1, voluntary registration for service; 2, A.R.P.; 3, nursing and first-aid, and auxiliary hospital services; 4, evacuation services; 5, transport services.

National morale may be determined in our homes—hoarders are not among our members who acknowledge our motto: Keep money in circulation that privation and discontent may be lessened—"Today We Live."

Last time our eagerness for service often resulted in sox that were shapeless, all so lovingly done, today, registering for voluntary service, we find the task our qualifications permit and conserve both energy and materials. We are all busy women, letters of information take time and postage, so our magazine as an avenue for information should appeal to all economically. Suggested plans of procedure have been sent to each provincial president and superintendent, membership lists will be available for the F.W.I.C.

Guiding our individual Institutes, provincially we join hands from Atlantic to Pacific—the F.W.I.C. for Canada. In accordance with our traditions we are trying to do this by voluntary methods.

This war is the most important matter on the agenda of the F.W.I.C. biennial convention which will meet in Edmonton, October 9th to 12th, inclusive.

Kelowna In Bygone Days

(From the files of the Kelowna Courier)

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Thursday, September 30, 1909
More rain has fallen in the past ten days than in the previous six weeks and there will be no more dust nuisance this year.

An enquiry was held on September 27 by Chief Boiler Inspector Peck and Inspector Downing in regard to the mishap which wrecked the engine in the city power house on August 21. Mr. Peck gave a summing up but made an official decision could not be made until later. The accident had been caused from water entering the engine in one of four different ways.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Thursday, October 1, 1914
A dispatch from Rome says the Kaiser is seriously ill at Swatki in Russian Poland, a few miles from the German border. Paris issued an official communication as follows: The situation is satisfactory. There has been no change of any account at the front except to the south of Woerwe where we have occupied Seichpray and have advanced our troops as far as the slope of Rupt Demad. . . . Austrians have thrown many mines over the sea in the Adriatic, which greatly endangers Italian shipping as well as the Italian coast. The general feeling in Rome is that war may be declared at any moment. . . . Italy has suffered so much from mines that it is expected the Italian government will demand $1,000,000 from Austria. London reports no decisive position has been attained by either side. Messages received in Petrograd from Odessa describe the Kaiser's agents in Constantinople as using their utmost endeavors to force participation in the war. There is already a feeling of extreme tension about the Balkan situation. Chiding under the control of Germans, residents of Brunnels are hourly growing more angry and several riots have occurred. . . . The Admiralty from London announced the capture, by the British cruiser Cumberland of the Hamburg-American liner Anfried and nine other merchant steamers, off the mouth of Cameroon river on the west coast of Africa. German agencies are trying to provoke a revolt in India. . . . The city of Malacca has again been occupied by the Belgians says an Antwerp correspondent. Preparations are believed being made for the retreat of the German right wing. . . .

The following telegram was sent from Vernon on September 21, by Reuben Swift to Earl Kitchener, London, England: "Informed you want men, Thousands in Canada anxious to get to the front. All good shots. How can we get there?"

r.p.m.'s column

HITLER'S ENVOY, Von Ribbentrop, has shaken hands with "blood-stained criminals" who are the enemies of Germany. Who says so? Von Ribbentrop's boss, Adolf Hitler. . . . Ribbentrop concluded a treaty with "people to whom no treaty is sacred." Who said so? Adolf Hitler. . . . Those who are in power in Russia have no idea of remaining true to any pact; they are "the dregs of humanity, savage tyrants, representatives of lies and deception, thievery, plunder, robbery." Who says that? Adolf Hitler himself says it. . . . Ribbentrop negotiated a pact with "a partner whose aim is the destruction of his fellow partner." Who says that? Adolf Hitler says it in "Mein Kampf," which is on sale at every bookstore in Germany, which every Nazi must read, mark, learn and inwardly digest, which every couple who marry in Germany is given as a wedding present from the Fuehrer. . . .

THIS IS EXACTLY what Hitler says about his new-found friends, the Russians, in Mein Kampf (My Struggle), his testament of political faith and the Nazi "Bible" of which he has repeatedly refused to alter one word. . . . "The Russians of today, deprived of its Germanic ruling class, is not a possible ally in the struggle for German liberty, setting aside entirely the inner designs of its new rulers. Those who are in power in Russia today have no idea of forming an honorable alliance or of remaining true to it, if they did. It must never be forgotten that the rulers of Russia are blood-stained criminals; that here we have the dregs of humanity which favored by the circumstances of a tragic moment overran a great state, degraded and exterminated millions of educated people and . . . have ruled with such a savage tyranny as was never known before. It must not be forgotten that these rulers belong to a people in which the most bestial cruelty is allied with a capacity for artful mendacity and believes itself today more than ever called to impose its sanguinary despotism on the rest of the world. Of course does not form an alliance with a partner whose only aim is the destruction of his fellow partner. Above all one does not enter into alliances with people for whom no treaty is sacred; because they do not move about this earth as men of honor and sincerity, but as representatives of lies and deception, thievery and plunder and robbery. The man who thinks that he can bind himself by treaty with parasites is like the tree that believes it can form a profitable bargain with the ivy that surrounds it. How can we teach the German worker that Bolshevism is an infamous crime against humanity if we ally ourselves with this infernal abortion and recognize its existence as legitimate?" . . . The quotations are from the unexpurgated English edition of Mein Kampf.

THE EDITORIAL PAGE of a recent issue of the Canadian Statesman of Bowmanville, Ontario, was written by members of the local ministry. In previous issues editorials were contributed by members of the Durham County Women's Association by farmers and members of the town council. In all instances the experiment was a complete success. The clergyman's contribution was part of the paper's campaign to get people to go to church regularly. September 24th was designated as "Back to Church" Sunday. The importance of church-going and a more religious life was stressed in many ways in this interesting edition—interesting and unusual in a secular publication. . . . The keynote was provided in a front page editorial headed "I'm going back to church," and here a layman played his part in refreshingly candid fashion. "In all honesty," he says facetiously, "I cannot say that I have experienced an awakening of heart, however great such confession might please some of my friends." He realizes that he was "unhappy outside the church," which merely reveals again the instinctive craving in the human heart for something more than the material things of life; some satisfaction for the spiritual side of human nature. Among all races of the world this is evident in some form of worship. . . . How indifference to religious duties is changed to by circumstances is illustrated by the writer's admission that when one of his children became seriously ill he turned to prayer. "I had ignored God when everything was running smoothly, and then gone bawling to Him for help at the first serious emergency." That, too, is a common experience. But it brought this honest admission: "That being the case, I was not doing the right thing to withhold my worship, even admitting that it was not essential to his happiness."

So this layman decides to be active again in church affairs. He hopes to "achieve that inner contentment so many old-fashioned Christians seemed to possess, but which is conspicuously lacking in the intelligentsia." There is nothing new in this experiment of taking up again church work and a more religious outlook on life. With increasing years man begins to wonder whether the world and its affairs—and these only—can bring comfort. It is at this stage he becomes either an out-and-out disbeliever, or renews his faith in Christianity. . . . One thing the Bowmanville writer is likely to discover if he perseveres in the religious life is that he will achieve "inner contentment" he observes among so many "old-fashioned Christians." He has the last words what is in the thoughts of many people at all times, but especially now, when, largely because of disregard of, or contempt for, Christianity and its tenets the world is in its present terrible condition. . . .

THE PATRIOTIC and public-spirited men who are offering their services to Canada to serve without salary in any capacity in which the government can use their services, deserve a word of commendation. Ottawa despatches state that approximately one hundred men of high ability have volunteered to do war work without remuneration. Wallace R. Campbell, the new chairman of the munitions and supply board, is among the company who did not fail when duty called. No finer spirit has been found than in the government service at Ottawa and throughout the provinces where senior officials with an intelligent devotion to country are tolling day and night to speed war preparations, to maintain the financial and economic stability of Canada, and to keep the national machinery running smoothly. . . . The churches, the women's organizations, the service clubs, the Red Cross, patriotic organizations and the labor unions are among those dedicating their time and their talents to their country. School girls and matrons, boy scouts, sea cadets and war veterans, nurses, doctors, engineers, clergymen, lawyers, artists and skilled men are rallying behind the flag, with a high sense of duty they count all things as nothing in comparison with the traditions and ideals for which their country stands. . . .

NATURE IS SPEAKING sweetly in these dying days of summer. Her message is one of the serious and beautiful things of life. To feel it, go out among the trees and hills, near some lagging river or brook and witness the passing of a season. The beauty of fall is the red-gold glow of reminiscence. Trees that we remember budding into brilliant green in spring are now fading. But how prettily fading! Like a mother, in reverent age, donning the silver mantle of white hair! A fading tree speaks mately of how splendid a thing age can be. It is a great art to fade beautifully. . . . The hills that have been clothed with the vigor of bright green have taken a quieter, more peaceful outlook now. It is as though age, in a pretty shawl, sat rocking peacefully, remembering and waiting. . . . Down the valley all is quiet and lovely. The bolsters of life are singing a different song, a melody of contentment. Along the banks the trees nod gravely, the trees that had known and gloried in the lashing passion of summer storms. . . . A miracle of miracles is working in the outdoors now. To witness it is to know a little more about life and peace. . . .

What do we mean
when we say

"Keep your name before the public!"

It is a well known principal of mental science that people are more likely to buy at the stores whose names are familiar.

Put two cigars before a man... and though both cigars may be made of the same tobacco and look alike, the chances are greatly in favor of the well-known brand being selected.

The very fact that a name is familiar is a suggestion to the mind that the firm is a more desirable place to buy at than one of an unfamiliar name, unless perchance the buyer has formed a dislike for the known store on account of an unsatisfactory experience with it.

Defence of Canada Regulations Require Enemy Aliens to Register

If Police Satisfied with Good Intentions of Alien He Will Not be Interfered With—Limit to Free Speech

One of the most interesting sections of the Defence of Canada regulations is contained in the chapters which deal with enemy aliens. A copy of these regulations has been obtained temporarily by The Courier along with the regulations which have been issued by the censorship coordination committee,
W. S. Thompson, director.

"All enemy aliens in Canada, so long as they peacefully pursue their ordinary avocations, shall be allowed to continue to enjoy the protection of the law and shall be accorded the respect and consideration due to peaceful and law abiding citizens, and they shall not be arrested, detained or interfered with provided they comply with the requirements in respect of registration prescribed, unless there is reasonable ground to believe that they are engaged in espionage, or are attempting to engage in acts of a hostile nature or are giving or attempting to give information to the enemy, or unless they otherwise contravene any law, order in council or proclamation.

"All enemy aliens who—
(a) are members of enemy armed forces and who attempt to leave Canada;

(b) attempt to leave Canada, and in regard to whom there is reasonable ground to believe that their attempted departure is with a view to assisting
the enemy;

(c) are engaged or who attempt to engage in espionage or acts of a hostile nature, or who give or who attempt to give information to the enemy, or who assist or attempt to assist the enemy, or who are on reasonable grounds suspected of doing or attempting to do any of the said acts;

shall be arrested and detained.

R.C.M.P. Authorities

"The power to effect the arrest and detention of all or any person or persons coming within any of the classes mentioned in the second paragraph of this regulation shall be vested in the commissioner, officers and constables of the R.C.M.P. and in such other persons as may be authorized so to do by the commissioner of the R.C.M.P."

"Any enemy alien who satisfies the police with his good intentions and will sign an undertaking from doing any act of hostility towards the government of Canada will be released from custody. Besides undertaking to observe and obey the laws of Canada, when signing the form the enemy alien states he will abstain from communicating to anyone any information concerning the existing war or the movement of troops or military preparations and will do no act which might be of injury to the Dominion of Canada, the United Kingdom or any of His Majesty's dominions or any allied or associated power.

"Any such person so arrested and detained as aforesaid, of whose good faith and responsibility the officer or authority making the arrest is not satisfied, or who refuses to sign the understanding, or who, having signed the undertaking, fails to abide by its terms,
shall be interned as a prisoner of war,
and if it is deemed necessary that guards be placed on persons so interned, such guards shall be furnished by the department of national defence."

No warrant is necessary in such interment.
Offices of registration shall be established, the regulations state, in such towns, cities and other places as may from time to time be designated by the minister of justice. Announcement was made last week as to the setting up of registration points, and all enemy aliens must register at once. The official in charge will be called a registrar of enemy aliens.

Registration Requirements

When registering the enemy alien will be required to give his name, nationality, place of residence in Canada and in the country of nationality, occupation, desire or intention to leave Canada, names of the wife and children, and such other particulars necessary for identification.

"If any enemy alien who is by terms
of this regulation required to register, fails to do so within one month of the notice referred to, or within seven days after the date when he shall by reason of his residence come within the description of those required to register, whichever date shall be last, or if he refuse or fail to answer truly any of the questions put by the registrar, or if being registered he fail to report as required or to observe any of the conditions upon which he is permitted to be at liberty he shall in addition to any other penalty to which he may by law be liable, be interned as a prisoner of war."

"If any enemy alien interned under the provisions of these regulations has a wife or children living with or dependent upon him, such dependents may be permitted to accompany him."

"Any enemy alien who has been interned may within thirty days of such internment, appeal against such interment to the nearest person designated by the minister of justice for the purpose of hearing such appeals, hereinafter referred to as 'The Tribunal'."

Sabotage Provisions

Under the heading of sabotage and misrepresentation some of the penalties to be imposed are laid out. Any apparatus to be used in any way for war shall not be impaired in any way.
No person shall knowingly cause interference with the sending or receiving of communications by means of radio or cause interference with or intercept, telegraphic or telephonic communications.

"No person shall do any act having reasonable cause to believe that it will be likely to prevent or interfere with the performance of their duties by members of His Majesty's forces or the carrying on of their work by persons engaged in the performance of essential services."

"No person shall do, in relation to

Political Broadcasts

Prohibition Made Prior to Quebec Announcement
Says W. S. Thompson

Walter S. Thompson, director of censorship, in a bulletin from Ottawa, states that the action of his department to withdraw microphones from platforms of political meetings throughout Canada, during the period of war, was taken prior to the announcement of a provincial election campaign in Quebec, "and the censorship authorities had indeed no knowledge that such an election was contemplated."

"After a careful review of the situation with Col. R. P. Landry, broadcasting censor," continues Mr. Thompson,
"it was found that the radio station managements had no satisfactory means of preventing statements contravening the defence of Canada regulations from being made when broadcasts were picked up from public platforms."

"It was, therefore, decided that during the period of war emergency, political broadcasts should be confined to studio broadcasting. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was asked on September 22, prior to the announcement of the Quebec provincial election, to inform all broadcasting stations in Canada of the decision and the reasons for it having been made."

any person who he knows to be a member of His Majesty's forces or to be a person so engaged, any act with intent thereby to render him incapable of efficiently performing his duties as such, or, as the case may be, of efficiently carrying on his work as a person so engaged.

"No person shall be guilty of an offence under this regulation by reason only of his taking part in, or peacefully persuading any other person to take part in, a strike."

Other provisions are similar and deal with giving out state information, intercepting signals or retransmitting them,
and giving misleading information.

"No person shall willfully obstruct any person entering or seeking to enter any premises or part of any premises in accordance with the notice or signal given by the minister of national defence or minister of pensions and national health."

"No person shall eject from any premises any persons who is entitled to be therein by virtue of such an order."

"In these regulations is contained the power to restrict assemblies of persons in any part of Canada either generally or for a particular purpose, in so far as such prohibition or restriction appears to be necessary in order to minimize the risk of loss of life or personal injuries being caused in that area in consequence of any attack by the enemy."

Prohibitions against displaying light signals are specified and there are provisions to deal with persons who display lights or make any signals which would indicate a position to the enemy.
Persons may also be required to stay within doors at specified periods.

Important Clause

One of the most important clauses in the entire regulations follows:
"No person shall by word of mouth,
any spread reports or make statements, false or otherwise, intended or likely to cause disaffection to His Majesty or to interfere with the success of His Majesty's forces or of the forces of any allied or associated powers or to prejudice His Majesty's relations with foreign powers or the spread reports or make statements, false or otherwise, intended or likely to prejudice the recruiting training discipline or administration of any of His Majesty's forces."

Unless specified any person found guilty of contravening these regulations, will be liable to a fine not exceeding $500 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding twelve months or to both fine and imprisonment, but if the person may at the election of the attorney general of Canada be prosecuted upon indictment and if convicted shall be liable to a fine not exceeding $5,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding five years, or to both fine and imprisonment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

ON NYCHUK BUILDING

Kelowna, B.C., Sept. 30, 1939.

Editor, Kelowna Courier.

Re: The Zoning Bylaw; The Nychuk
Case, and our Aldermanic Actions.

For the information of the public,
and especially the taxpayers of the City of Kelowna, I wish to state the Zoning Bylaw, of which one side has been advertised and the other suppressed.

The assessed valuation of land between Ellis and Richter streets, on Bernard avenue, indicate that the use of these properties must be for business purposes, or for the building of $8,000.00 residences to make the usual equation in taxation between land and improvements. It is improbable that anyone would build an $8,000.00 house so close to a business section, so therefore the property has only business potentialities.

Mr. Wm. Nychuk purchased a parcel of land, just east of St. Paul street with the intention of erecting a building for and to the interest of his business, and although he was willing to abide by all the building bylaws and fire marshals regulations his application was refused. At approximately the same time another building was erected, and business licences granted to two other firms. This building was still further east of the Nychuk property.

After conferring with his solicitor,
Mr. Nychuk found that there was no law, Federal, provincial, nor municipal to stop him from using his property for business purposes, so therefore he used his legal rights and started to erect his building.

At a meeting of the councillors and the surrounding property owners, it was voted that the business district should extend to Richter street; there being a natural cut off line of churches, schools and apartment houses, (there is no such line at St. Paul street) but, at a following council meeting, the aldermen forced through a zoning by-law, stopping all businesses at St. Paul street in absolute defiance of the taxpayers wishes. The City of Kelowna has collected business property taxes on this land for thirty years, and possibly the city council did not want to force such a bylaw on certain property owners, but, when a man of undoubtedly alien ancestry (if not of birth) applied for a building permit and was refused dictatorially, started to use the rights granted to any British subject, the councillors forced the zoning bylaw with three readings in one night, in an attempt to forestall any further legal rights. The local supply magistrate upheld the city and fined the defendant $10.00.

Appealing to a higher court (outside of local interference) Mr. Nychuk was granted permission to proceed with the erection of his building and to establish his business. He was willing to pay all fees, such as building permits, taxes, and business licence, also water, light and sewerage charges. All of these payments were refused.

The City of Kelowna has spent thousands of dollars of the taxpayers money in re-appealing this case, which is probably more than the building and land is worth. Granted that the City eventually won their case after defendant could no longer afford the services of K.C. lawyers. The City through its representatives have now the right to demolish an attractive building, which is a revenue producer to them, and create an empty lot which might revert for taxation and become a liability rather than an asset.

All the above might mean a fat living for legal advisors, but it seems that there has been some very unfair practice and discriminating administration.

Yours truly,
D. R. LECKIE.

In both cases the gifts were accom-

Canadian Exports of Apples and Pears to Great Britain Exempt from Prohibition

The following summary of the export market at London has been supplied by the Department of Trade and Commerce.

The various war emergency measures which are now in operation in the United Kingdom have not yet affected the normal marketing of home grown and imported fruits, and all markets are carrying on as usual. The trade in imported fruits, however, may be required to operate under certain unavoidable difficulties associated with the arrival of cargoes and the absence of shipping information, for reasons which will be readily understood. Conditions, however, are rapidly adjusting themselves to the emergency, but while this is taking place, marketing information is somewhat scarce.

War Regulations

Control of imports is an essential factor in war time and Import Prohibition (No. 1) Order 1939 has been issued which prohibits the importation of goods except under licence.

However, fresh apples and pears are exempt from this order, and may be imported without a licence.

Other fresh fruits in which Canadian exporters may be interested can be imported only under licence, and the shipper should make sure that the consignee possesses the necessary authority if any shipments are contemplated.

The market for imported fresh fruit is now busily engaged in digesting the war time emergency measures involving import licences and currency control measures, and some disturbance of trade in certain types of fruit, particularly those of the less essential kinds, has been inevitable, states W. B. Gornall, Canadian Fruit Trade Commissioner, London, in a circular issued from Ottawa on September 23. Also the vulnerability to air attack of the larger cities tends to create uncertainty. General conditions, however, are becoming more settled, control regulations are being more thoroughly understood, misunderstandings are being straightened out, and the trade is rapidly settling down to war time conditions, assisted to an appreciable extent by the experience of 25 years ago.

The market, while it has dealt in small quantities of Canadian apples from British Columbia and Ontario, has yet to meet the first substantial arrivals, and these are expected to be offered for sale during the coming week. It is mere speculation to attempt to indicate the reaction of the market to this initial sale, but there is some possibility that prices will not be at a low level. This is particularly true for the best quality packs of good color most suitable for dessert purposes. A feature that tends to create favorable marketing conditions is the rather moderate volume of the initial shipments from Nova Scotia, and it may be that little difficulty in rapid disposal will be encountered.

American Apples

At the moment very little information is available with respect to the total volume of American apples on the market, and with inevitable delays inseparable from prevailing conditions, the total volume available for sale during the week is reported to be rather light. In consequence, values have been well maintained, and what may be considered satisfactory levels under the circumstances of increased transportation and other costs, also depreciated currency exchange.

A small quantity of B.C. Wealthy ex s.s. "Salaria" has reached the Glasgow market, but as no record of sale at auction is available it is presumed that the fruit was disposed of through private treaty channels. 250 barrels of Ontario Duchess were delivered from the same steamer and at auction No. 1 grade realised 10/6 and Domestic 14/6 per barrel. This consignment appears to have been a considerable time in transit, and whereas the s.s. "Salaria" was reported sailing from Montreal on August 25th, the sale in Glasgow did not occur until September 13th.

On the Liverpool market a small number of B.C. boxes ex s.s. "Duchess of York" were offered for sale and the shipment forwarded on the s.s. "Beaufort" for London was diverted to this port. A good demand developed for the limited volume available, but values were at a somewhat lower level than for the opening week of last season. A year ago, Wealthy realised 12/- to 14/- per box, which is slightly lower than last year when initial values ranged from 11/6 to 15/6. Gravenstein at 9/6 to 10/6 show a marked decline compared with 11/6 to 14/3 while Grimes Golden at 8/- to 10/6 are below the opening prices of last season.

Canadian Pears

Pears have met a moderate to good demand, supplies are very light and values compare favorably with the corresponding period of last season.

British Columbia Boussock Fancy 10/- to 12/6 per box.

British Columbia Flemish Beauty Fancy 10/0 to 11/6 per box.

Ontario Bartlett No. 1 Fancy 11/0 to 13/- per hamper.

A shipment of approximately 2,000 boxes of B.C. Flemish Beauty ex s.s. "Aurora" were landed in London on September 11th and the condition of the fruit brought forth favorable comment from the trade. The shipment is being handled by private treaty and prices from 10/- per box upwards are expected.

JOCK SCOTT IN ORILLIA

Jock Scott, aged 56, who visited Kelowna last spring on his walking trip across Canada was last reported to have been in Orillia, Ont. where he had been the United States to Vancouver and then started eastward. He claims to have walked 27,000 miles on three continents, Europe, Africa and North America.

TORPEDOED AND SWAMPED

This picture was made from the deck of the S.S. American Farmer, showing a lifeboat from the S.S. Kafiristan as it approached safety, bearing some of the 35 members of the crew of the Kafiristan which had been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine. When the lifeboat shown here was launched by the sinking vessel, it was swamped in the sea and six men were lost.

In Blackened England

Kelowna Girl, Studying Art in England, Tells of Life in First Days of War

Miss Pat Willis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Willis, Abbott street, Kelowna, has spent the past three years in England and France, studying art and the theatre. On August 24, she was a member of a party being conducted through France by an elderly maestro who holds classes and conducts tours for finished artists. Miss Willis gives a clear-cut picture of conditions and her description of reactions and scenes around her are fine. Her letter to her mother, which we repeat in part here, was started at the Hotel du Casino, Fecamp, Normandy, on August 24. The letter follows:

"France is very sad today as mobilization notices were posted in the public places. We read it on the Abbey door. Our best maid has the day off to pack up her policeman husband. The maestro (a famous art teacher who has a large class of artists of all ages and degrees annually studying under him in France during August and September) told us to cash our cheques and get money ready, etc.

"Such a pity, we may not get to Paris after all. We're not afraid, I expect it through ignorance as we don't buy or read the papers. Now our chef is leaving. Some of our party has rushed home in a panic. We may have to go—simply tragic for these poor people's business. However, it has come fairly near the end of the season.

Goes Through Windjammer

"A real windjammer, a great big one, is in the harbor here and they planned to sail tomorrow and so may not till they hear if it's war or not. They were very nice and showed us all over the boat. The flea-ridden bunks in the fore-cabin where the men live—like a movie come to life—and the captain's and officers' bunks aft. Even they weren't much, but they had mattresses, instead of hay and boards to sleep on. The men had just got up and had 'boozed' heavily the night before, yet they were all so respectful and asked me to christen their little mascot, a tabby cat.

"Two days ago we went to a village called Valmont I loved it so and was immediately struck by its sweetness and gentle age that seemed the essence of Norman dignity and simplicity. None of the villages has seemed so enchanting.

"The other day I was in the abbey and an old woman approached. I said how beautiful the Abbey was. She said I was foreign by my faltering French and when she heard I was English she put out her hand and said, 'You English then you are my friend,' and wrung my hand and beamed. She said she loved our King and Queen and hoped I'd be well and happy and have a long life.

"Everyone has left the hotel except some of our party and four other courageous souls.

"On Wednesday, August 30, we said goodbye to four of our party and as my two best friends were among them I felt a horrible gap in things. The rest of us couldn't paint that day so we spent the time shopping and collecting odd bits of things we needed. 'Fiddle' and I bought a blue dress each and we each got a lovely silk square. Had tea and cakes as only the French can make at the best Patisserie. Then 'George' had to have a dress like ours. So she was fitted. As the town was by that time empty the women in the shop were so delighted with the business we brought her she gave us each a pretty hanky.

Had to Leave

"Next day we spent painting hard and thoroughly enjoying ourselves. In the evening at the hotel, Maestro looked grave and said we were leaving the following day, September 1. We did and packed and rushed about Macastro, Fiddle and 'Flak' left in Flak's car

TRADES LICENCE APPLICATIONS

Applications for trades licences were approved by the council on September 25th. A. D. Carr-Hilton was granted a licence as an investment agent. L. M. Flintoff will receive a licence as wood dealer. The request of W. Hardy to change the name of his firm from Northwestern Mutual Insurance Co. to William and E. N. Hardy was granted.

for a cup of tea and troubled sleep. As you may have read, it was a false alarm as the planes sighted proved friendly.

"Monday night we had a most terrible thunderstorm. Most of the household thought it was an attack and were paralyzed for a time. I, luckily, knew what it was. Then, next morning, we were awakened by sirens at 6.45 and rushed to the dugout and remained in its damp, cold interior for one and three-quarter hours. The second alarm went at 8.22 and all clear at 8.45. Again there was no trouble but it's unpleasant in one's night attire, with eyes full of sleep. All England is so efficient now and so prepared and waiting trouble.

"The glorious weather continues and we bang into people in the dark when walking. Two layers of newspapers over torches and all cars with just tiny glimpses of lights. No street lamps or house lights. Middle ages could not have been darker."

Sport Gossip

By J. R. A.

Not that I hold any brief for golf nor do I particularly like the game, yet just to make some of my golf friends annoyed your Gossiper will give you this week some of the highlights in an article written in the September issue of The Rotarian by Quentin Reynolds, well-known feature writer. It is entitled: "My Pet Hate is Golf," so you can almost guess the rest. In fact, Mr. Reynolds has three pet hates... opera, bridge and golf... but golf as an upsetter of nerves and a wrecker of dispositions tops the list.

"I think golf is all right for the aged and infirm," states Mr. Reynolds, taking a firm hold on his pen and watching out the side of his eye for a mass formation attack by the linksmen. "If a man is too old to chase anything else, why it's all right for him to chase a little white ball all over the countryside. Golf is neither exercise nor relaxation. It is hard on the nerves and a great sourer of dispositions. A golf course is a breeding place of liars and an incentive to egomania."

"The only place where I ever enjoyed playing golf was on the course of the Carrizozo Golf Club in Carrizozo, New Mexico. The ranchers of the neighborhood each tossed in $100 to build the course and the clubhouse. It's a nice course with marvelous sand greens. There's nothing around much but sand and cactus—no grass at all, because the cattle eat all the grass."

"Now it gets very hot in Carrizozo but the ranchers and the cowboys figured out a way to beat the heat. Each golfer has two caddies when he starts out. The job of one is the conventional job of taking care of the clubs, teeing up the ball and chasing it when it finds the rough. The job of the other is to carry a large pitcher of refreshments. As soon as the pitcher is emptied or its contents become warm, he runs back to the clubhouse for a refill. No one bothers about keeping score on the Carrizozo links. Records show that only one in twenty-four comes gets beyond the fifth hole. Yes, it is hot in Carrizozo."

Mr. Reynolds relates how he made a comfortable living while covering the New York Giants during spring training. Frank O'Doul was playing outfield and he was also a mighty fine golfer. Quentin Reynolds would inveigle some sucker into making a substantial bet and Mr. O'Doul would do the rest. It was a nice combination although not strictly ethical. Mr. Reynolds admits this but also states: "But I would also like to point out the fact that ethics have no place in international relations of bridge or golf."

"As far as I know," continues Mr. Reynolds, there are only two sensible, rational golfers in the world. One of them is John Kieran, of the New York Times. Years ago he was a very proficient golfer and, like all golfers of ability, his only interest in the game was his score. He didn't play golf for his own sake; he played it so he could walk proudly into the clubhouse with a 79 on his card. He found himself getting obsessed with the game. His work was suffering and he was losing sleep, at night. One day he found himself bawling out an office boy for no reason at all. He discovered to his horror that he had become a surly misanthrope disliked by one and all, he who had once been the best liked newspaperman in New York."

"He thought it all over and came to the conclusion that golf was the cause. It happens that Kieran is a naturalist with no mean accomplishment. He loves trees and birds and flowers. He hated to give up golf entirely because of his interest in nature. Golf courses are challengers to a botanist such as John. He did the next best thing. He threw all his clubs away except one midiron. Today he plays golf as much as ever but he does not keep score and he used only that one club. He goes around a course casually, not caring much where the ball lands. If it comes to rest in some tangled undergrowth far off the fairway John smiles with delight."

"The other golfer is a man named Robert Minton. I was playing in a foursome at the Hugh Ridge Country Club recently when Mr. Minton playing behind us came up and asked politely if he could play through. We nodded and he walked to the 16. He took some sand and fixed it carefully. Then he took his stance, took careful sight down the fairway and drove."

"Four of us had watched this with great interest. We all waited for someone else to speak. Finally one said: 'Maybe I'm out, but I didn't see him hit the ball.'"

"He is evidently a real crackpot," another said.

"I saw Mr. Minton in the locker room afterward. 'What kind of a game did you have?' I asked."

"Great, great!" he smiled. "Here's my card."

"He handed it to me and I saw that

NORTH OKANAGAN TO HAVE PUCK LOOP

So far as the Vernon Hockey Club is concerned there is to be a hockey league in the North Okanagan this winter, and with this objective in view the local club is now planning to organize a team by November 1.

At a meeting of the club on Saturday night it was decided that as there was apparently nothing to hinder the organization of a league in the valley this year, plans should be set into operation immediately so that when the ice is laid at the arena, probably by November 10, the club will be ready to start try-outs and practices at once.

Disastrous Inning Spells Defeat for Rutland Nine Against Penticton

Southerners Clout in Eight Runs in Second Frame to Win from Adanacs 11-5

One disastrous inning spelled the defeat of Rutland in their first encounter with Penticton in their home and home series for the Interior championship by an 11-5 score. The game was played in the Kelowna ball park on Sunday afternoon, and was attended by a good crowd of Kelowna and Rutland fans. Apart from the hectic second inning they witnessed a good game, and Rutland is confident of giving Penticton a closer run in the second game which is to be played at King's Park in Penticton next Sunday.

Rutland started out in fine style in the opening frame, Henry Wostrowski fanning Benway and Alymer Cousins, the first two Penticton batters to face him, but walked Webster, Kincaid singled, but was forced at second on Harold Cousins' grounder to shortstop to retire the side without a score.

In their half of the inning Rutland Adanacs collected one counter. Bach going to first via the hit-by-pitcher route, stealing a base and advancing to third on a passed ball. Andy Kitch missed the third strike, but the catcher dropped the ball. Bach scoring from third on the throw to first. Blacklock being too slow to return the ball. The Holisky brothers then struck out to retire the side.

The second inning was a sad one for Rutland. Coy started off with a walk, and Dagg got on by the same route. Henry showing a lack of control that seldom features his chucking, but was much in evidence in this game when he gave a total of eight free passes. Harwood was safe at first to fill the bases when Henry made a late throw of his grounder, the ball hitting the runner. A single by Blacklock scored two runners, then two errors in succession by Gerein at shortstop allowed Benway and Cousins safely and scored Blacklock and Harwood. Webster fled out to the catcher for the first out, but Kincaid scored on another hit, scoring Benway and A. Cousins. H. Cousins cracked out a double, to score Kincaid, and Coy, coming up for the second time in the inning, made the second out, grounding out second to first. Dagg lined out a long hit between left and centre for a two-bagger, scoring H. Cousins, who came in with the eighth run of the inning. Harwood was safe on an error but an attempted steal by Dagg was nipped at third for the third out.

Rutland failed to score in their half. Wostrowski grounding out, second to first. F. Wostrowski fanned, but Bullock singled stole second and third, Gerein walked, to put two runners on the bags. Lingor popped out to the catcher, however, to end the chance to score.

The third inning was shorter, the Penticton team being retired in order, but Rutland recovered two of their runs. Kitch and A. Holisky scoring on an error by Coy on J. Holisky's drive.

In the fourth Penticton again went out one-two-three, while Rutland got another two counters to make the game look more interesting, the score then being 8 to 5. Gerein and Bach drew free passes to first by waiting out Harold's high ones, advanced on Kitch's sacrifice, and scored on a hard-driven single by A. Holisky.

From then on Rutland failed to gain another run, though in the fifth Henry Wostrowski cracked out a triple to right field, only to see three of his teammates fall when Cousins turned he had shot a 67.

"That's the best score I ever made," he said happily. "Two years ago I had a 72 but in those days, of course, I used a ball. That makes it a bit harder. Now without using a ball I find that I can crack put practically every time."

"Why don't you use a ball in playing?" I asked.

"He laughed. My way is much more fun. When I used a ball I'd fly into a rage when I hooked or sliced or made a bad putt. My disposition was so bad that my wife left me my dog bit me and I lost my job. I finally took stock of myself. I found that the only part of golf I really enjoyed was the actual swinging of the club. By eliminating the ball altogether I still retain the one enjoyable feature of the game and suffer none of the disastrous failures. I enjoy swinging I enjoy walking, and above all, I enjoy putting down my score at the end of each hole. Some people think I'm crazy but just look around the room."

"I did. There were a dozen burly, squawking golfers all screaming about the score they would have had if it hadn't been for etc. etc. Four others were drinking guiltily, apparently to forget a bad round. Only Mr. Minton was happy."

Yes, as far as I know, he said. I'm the only one in the world who actually enjoys golf. To me it's the greatest game in the world. I played without a ball.

"I have gone Mr. Minton one better. Today I play without a ball and with out clubs. By staying away from the course I eliminate the danger of sunstroke. The opera bridge golf I'll enjoy all three by myself in some quiet spot standing behind a cooling glass with never the sight of fat fellows, the shrill arguments of bridge addicts, or the whine of the bad golfers to disturb my peace."

KELOWNA LOSES TO VERNON BY FIVE POINTS

Inter-Club Golf Match Goes to Northern Players with Large Contingent Playing—Horn-Latta Cup Next Week

Twenty-two golfers, one of the largest contingents to represent Kelowna in an inter-club match in some years, played at Vernon last Sunday, October 1 and ended up five points in the red to the Vernones. A splendid day was recorded and the play was close in most instances.

In the morning, Vernon had a lead of seven points to four and increased that lead by the end of the day to five points, 24½ to 19½. Last spring, when Vernon played in Kelowna, the Orchard City golfers won by scores of 38 to 28.

Play in the mixed foursomes competition has been close on the Kelowna course with three matches ending all square and re-plays being necessary. The Barnes cup play, four ball foursomes, is down to the quarter-finals.

Next Sunday, the Kelowna Horn-Latta cup team goes to Penticton for the second of the series of games to decide the location of this coveted trophy for the ensuing year. Kelowna has a commanding lead over the southerners and is confident of retaining the cup.

Following are the results of last Sunday's play at Vernon:

Vernon

Hannah and Lefroy	3½
Murphy and Lawrence	3
Pugh and H. Nolan	2
L. Clarke and O'Keefe	3½
Lewis and E. J. Chambers	0
Farquharson and Harding	½
Greenwood and C. B. Lefroy	3
Sherwood and Mowat	3
Green and Curry	4
Brimblecombe and Kinnard	4

on the heat to retire them in order.

One Run Each Canto

Penticton added a run in each inning for three successive frames, the fifth seeing Dagg score on Blacklock's sacrifice to first, and the sixth A. Cousins scoring on a third error by the Rutland shortstop. The visitors' final run came in the seventh, Blacklock scoring on A. Cousins' triple to the left field fence. The eighth and ninth innings were short and snappy, and though both teams got a man on base in each inning, they never got into a scoring position, both pitchers, having things too well in hand.

Neither team played at full strength in this contest. Penticton lacked the services of Verne Cousins, injured in the last game with Kelowna, and Rutland was handicapped by the loss of Ritchey at short, due to an injury to his hand while working at the Occidental packing house. Gerein filled in at this hot spot on the infield and did his best but showed the results of a two month lay-off.

B.C. RECOGNIZED AS LEADING PROVINCE

New York Quotes B.C. as Head Physical Ed. Province in America

Physical education has made great strides in B.C. during the past four years. It was recently announced from New York that B.C. leads all provinces and states in North America in physical education. In B.C., exercises have been the basis of physical recreation as it is felt that more can be accomplished through artificial means and movement may be localized for adaptation to the individual or group. Included in the summer training course by the department of physical education, besides elementary anatomy and physiology is kenethology, which gives the teacher a thorough understanding of muscle movement in relation to body movement.

In remedial and keep fit work, which has proven popular with the women, calisthenic exercises play an important part. Marion Todd in charge of women's activities in Kelowna and district this season has taken a special course in remedial exercises and will have a lot of new material for the "keep fit" class.

Bill Wilcox who received honor marks at the summer course will have charge of men's activities in Kelowna and district. Last year Mr. Wilcox had charge of the East Kelowna centre and assisted at the Kelowna and Mission centre. At Westbank Ab-Shelter will be assisting with the centre, Nora Perry will be assisting Marion Todd. In the South Okanagan Mark Gregory will be in charge and will be assisted by Vincent Venables, and Gwen Rennie of Penticton. Bill Ladner and Pat King will be in charge of the Vernon centre and at Armstrong Jack Potchecary and Pat King will be instructing. No new centres will be opened in the Valley.

VERNON WILL JOIN B.C. ASSOCIATION

Membership in the British Columbia Fish and Game Association was decided upon at the meeting of the Executive of the Vernon and District Fish & Game Protective Association recently.

Members of the Vernon executive feel that there are certain questions that are better taken up through an association representing all the clubs of the province, than by associations representative of sections and if the re-organized B.C. body is to be made effective, the clubs should give it support and make it the sort of association they desire rather than remain outside and criticize. There is confidence in President Jock Stirling of Kelowna and a desire to assist him in the duties he has undertaken.

GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY LINE IS ABANDONED

Similkameen Branch Rails Being Torn Up—Dream of Jim Hill Vanishes

The Similkameen branch of the Great Northern is no more. Work men started to pull steel on the railway from the States last week.

Behind those two bare sentences lies the story of one of the greatest unfulfilled dreams in the history of the West. Thirty years ago Jim Hill, railroad tycoon and "empire builder," envisioned another Great Northern empire to be made up of the Southern Interior of the then wild province of British Columbia. Another jewel should be added to his crown. To secure this rich prize Hill planned a railway from Osoyoos in the state of Washington up the Similkameen and Tuleen rivers to the Coquihalla, and thence down to Vancouver and Seattle. The road was actually built as far as Brookmead in the Coquihalla and service started in 1909. But the Kettle Valley railroad reached the valley in 1915, and Jim Hill gave up his grand idea.

For years the G.N. operated services into Princeton from Osoyoos, until a few years ago the track was cut out near Hedley. From that time on service was discontinued from Hedley to Princeton, although strenuous opposition was raised by business and mining interests against complete desertion of the line. As late as the spring of this year the railway company delayed action on the petition of the Princeton board of trade. Now the time has come, crews are at work lifting rails and shipping south the steel that was to have made an empire. So passes the dream of the "empire builder," to join him in the grave.

For millions of years the world's early birds had teeth.

Argentina will have a motor speed limit of 40 miles an hour.

Passes Four Score Years

Thomas M. Ryall, Grand Old Man of Kelowna District, Celebrates Eighty Years of Health

Eighty years of progressive life were celebrated in Kelowna on Monday, October 2, by an energetic man who belies his years—Thomas McCheane Ryall—who was born in Paris, Ont., on October 2, 1859. A slim, erect man, Mr. Ryall carries himself well for a man who has passed eight decades of life and is much more energetic than many men a score of years his junior. All his life Mr. Ryall has been an energetic man. He has been a man capable of working wonders with his hands, and his home at 127 Bernard avenue in Kelowna contains many features of his art. He is by trade a tool designer and he was a specialist in his occupation.

When he was seventeen years of age Mr. Ryall branched forth into the tool designing trade and for fifteen years he worked in seven states of the Union and was never at a loss for a job. His main work was designing tools for manufacturing purposes.

Spent Year in England

One of the most memorable years of his life was 1897, the Queen Victoria Diamond Jubilee year, which he spent in England. He would work for a short time whenever it pleased him, as work was plentiful, and the balance of the year was spent in cycling all over England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, France, Italy and other European countries. He has a wealth of pictures depicting every city which he visited and one of his most treasured pictures is that of Queen Victoria in front of St. Paul's Cathedral. The aged Queen is faced by all the princes of Europe.

One interesting experience occurred to Mr. Ryall and his chum while cycling in Italy. They were arrested for riding their bikes through a city in Italy and paid fines of two francs, or twenty cents. His chum was named Post, and that family is well known in Battle Creek, Mich.

Eleven years later he crossed the Atlantic again and had the interesting experience of selling motorboats on the Nile.

In 1898, Mr. Ryall settled in Montreal and commenced a metal business, but ill health forced his retirement from that trade and in 1911, when the doctor advised him to get out in the open, he took the advice of Albert J. Cameron and bought property in Glenora from the Central Okanagan Land Company. Mr. Cameron was agent at that time for the land company in Montreal and the splendid array of Okanagan apples displayed there attracted great attention.

Hard Struggle on Ranch

But it was a hard struggle to keep the orchard going in Glenora. Mr. Ryall cut down a number of trees on his property, fashioned machinery, made boxes and did practically all the work on the ranch himself. Three times he left the property to go back to his trade to make enough money to keep the ranch going, he says. From 1914 to 1918 he spent in the east where metal workers were scarce and he was needed at his trade in war time.

About eight years ago Mr. Ryall sold his property in Glenora and last week moved into home building. He also erected the Ryallown Apartments on Ellis street. He has built eight homes in Kelowna. Four years ago, Mr. Ryall's property in Glenora was sold and they came into Kelowna building their present home on Bernard avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryall were married in Glenora at the old Prowse home, one of the first homes in that district, in 1912. Mrs. Ryall is a sister of George C. Hume, of Glenora. Theirs was the first marriage in Glenora.

They have travelled across the continent by motor six times, the first occasion being in 1918 when they attached a trailer to their McLaughlin car. They were among the first pioneers in trailer transportation across the continent.

Friends Rally Round

Since coming in to Kelowna to reside, Mr. and Mrs. Ryall have broadened their acquaintanceship to a great extent and every afternoon and evening, friends in their neighbourhood gather at the Ryall home to play shuffleboard and bask in the friendly hospitality for which Mr. and Mrs. Ryall are renowned.

Their shuffleboard court is a well constructed one and is fashioned on those which they observed during their many winters spent in California. Mr. Ryall maintains excellent health until the cold weather arrives, when he must leave for a warmer climate.

In the garage at the rear of the Ryall home is a workshop which is marvellous in its scope. Mr. Ryall fashioned most of the equipment himself and spends many hours "keeping in his hand" at his original trade. Many fine and useful pieces of household equipment bear mute evidence of his skill.

An ingenious arrangement can be observed in their kitchen. What appears to be an ordinary cupboard is, when opened, a woodbox. The wood container can be raised or lowered by means of a crank in the basement and the Ryall are not bothered with the hateful task of lugging wood upstairs in armfuls.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryall are a happy couple who have made a success of their marriage and can be content in their retired years with the knowledge that they have a host of friends.

MRS. JIM LOGIE CHOSEN HEAD OF PLAYERS CLUB

First Annual General Meeting Hears of Successes of Initial Year and Decides to Continue Activities

First general meeting of the Kelowna Players Club was held at the Orange hall on Tuesday evening, October 3, with a large number in attendance. Reports by the retiring directors indicated that the season had been a successful one and a favorable bank balance was indicated.

Mrs. Jim Logie was the choice of the club as the president for the 1939-40 season with James Macdonald as vice-president, Mrs. P. J. Kitley as secretary, with Jim MacLaren being re-elected treasurer. The committee consists of Mr. Bissell, Robert Cheyne and Miss McQueen.

A one-act playably directed by Miss McQueen was staged after the business session, the cast being composed of Miss Jean Harvey, Mrs. Ron Pomeroy, Miss Nancy Gale, P. J. Kitley and Bill Gaddes. Also, a short skit entitled "Snow Drop and the Seven Dwarfs" brought a lot of laughs.

It was decided that the yearly fees would remain the same as in the past year, namely $1.50.

HON. G. STIRLING AGAIN NAVY LEAGUE HEAD

Successful Year Reported on at Annual Meeting of Kelowna Branch Navy League of Canada

Marking the conclusion of a successful year, Hon. Grote Stirling presided over a fair gathering of members and friends at the annual general meeting of the Navy League of Canada, Kelowna branch, at the Legion hall on Thursday, September 28.

Reports were read from the officer commanding, Capt. G. S. Greenland, R.N., from which it appeared that the past year had been a successful one. The result of inspection was that the corps was placed second in B.C., Victoria being first, 35 marks ahead of Kelowna, out of 1,000.

The annual camp was held at Gibson's Landing and was again a most successful affair. The boys received swimming and boat instruction.

The honorary treasurer gave his report, which disclosed a sound financial position, although the branch is rather short of ready cash.

Members of the ladies auxiliary had worked hard and successfully during the past year, the report of Mrs. Stanbridge showed.

Best was expressed that after many years devoted service that W. Rennie and R. J. S. Stoddard had been forced to resign from active service with the Navy League.

Hon. Stirling was again the unanimous choice of the gathering as president and W. S. Dawson was returned as vice-president. J. H. Drinkwater was chosen honorary secretary and B. J. Greening as honorary treasurer. The committee consists of Mrs. F. Tut, J. J. Gurr, Capt. J. Hawes, A. B. Woods and Donald Whitham.

Votes of thanks and appreciation were accorded the ladies' auxiliary, the press for its constant help, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson for loan of the campsite and F. C. Roberts, the honorary auditor.

Hon. Grote Stirling gave an interesting address referring to the excellent training the boys received which is so helpful to them in after life. He explained that the corps could do with more boys and he also gave some details of the Canadian navy and by all persons in this Nazi war.

A concert will be held early in November to aid corps funds.

within the shortest space of time and present a concrete proposal to the government officials. It would be impossible to approach the government with any proposal now, he indicated, as the food supply board is swamped with suggestions.

Alleviate Export

Considerable discussion arose among the shippers on Wednesday as to the extent of the meaning of the subsidy, but general agreement was reached that the subsidy is provided to alleviate the export condition mainly. The ordinary channel of exporting apples has been curtailed because of lack of ships, and is thus curtailed directly on account of war. Therefore, the government deemed it advisable to give some assistance to the producers for this condition.

Some of the sizes in these varieties include cee grade McIntosh and Delicious which, according to the agreement made by the shippers association earlier in the year, would not be exported. The shippers on Wednesday decided to abide by this agreement.

It was agreed that the subsidy shall be proportioned to the shippers on the basis of sizes, grades and varieties as set out in the agreement with the Dominion government with the exception of those sizes which the association had agreed not to ship.

Another agreement was reached that the Dominion government should be approached to subsidize consignments of apples to the Old Country where firm sales had dropped off. This subsidy would either be in addition to the present agreement or would become part of the agreement.

Extend Date of Storage

Date of free storage for Old Country deliveries have been set back one month as a gesture to the Old Country buyers who have absorbed all increases in cost because of the war. Final date for McIntosh free storage will be November 15 and other varieties December 15.

While in the east Major McGuire in-terviewed heads of the railway freight departments and received their assurance that the freight rates would not be increased at present, but he could not obtain their decision to put into effect the dollar freight rate in the $1.13 area, which applied last year.

As there is a feeling that an attempt will be made to increase ocean freight rates again, the shippers association decided to endeavor to forestall any such move by placing their objection before the conference now.

In the afternoon the officials of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. met the shippers at a general meeting at which various angles of the present situation were discussed. The meeting was called to obtain the general reaction to the assistance granted the industry by the government and receive suggestions as to ways and means of disposing of the apparent surplus of Okanagan apples this year. No concrete decisions were arrived at by the meeting.

LOW VOLTAGE CAUSES ALARM IN OKANAGAN

West Kootenay Head Agrees to Alleviate Situation Upon Meeting Valley Council Representatives at Penticton

Okanagan users of West Kootenay electric power were alarmed last week when the voltage from that company's lines dropped in voltage to such an extent that transformers on the local lines were being threatened. In the Kelowna Growers Exchange area on Ellis street, where one transformer was handling the load for a number of packing houses, fuses burned out on three different occasions in one day and it was feared the transformer itself would burn out.

As a consequence, another transformer had to be installed to divide the load. Ordinarily one transformer would handle the load if the voltage was at its normal level.

On Thursday, Mayor O. L. Jones, Alderman J. D. Pettigrew, chairman of the electric light department and City Engineer H. A. Blakeborough went to Penticton where representatives of the Kelowna, Summerland and Penticton councils met Lorne A. Campbell, general manager of the West Kootenay Power & Light Co.

It was found that the Copper Mountain power plant had broken down and in order to keep the huge Granby company in operation the West Kootenay had given that area the service which ordinarily came up the Okanagan and allowed this area the overload.

Further, it was agreed by the West Kootenay head to install a synchronous condenser at Oliver to boost up the voltage on West Kootenay lines and improve the efficiency for the Okanagan Valley consumers.

The Granby company has a ten-year contract to supply concentrates to Japan and employs a large payroll at its plants at Copper Mountain and Albenby.

On Friday, Mr. Blakeborough reported that the voltage was almost back to normal and the condition had been alleviated.

formulation concerning the market quality, the price according to that quality and where the produce comes from. If the produce is priced too high for the quality shown, then Miss Middleton tells her readers about that condition.

One of Miss Middleton's main purposes is to teach the housewife to buy according to quality, to get the best food value, the food with the most nutritive value. She is endeavoring to show the housewife that No. 2 quality is alright for cooking purposes but No. 1 quality should be used for table purposes.

Consumer Movement

The problem of buying is a big one for the housewife and she warned that the consumer movement in Canada will soon be felt as it has already become widespread in the United States. If it has the right leadership this movement will do a great deal of good, but she warned that if it hasn't the right leadership it can do a great deal of harm.

She spoke shortly on the big, juicy McIntosh Red apples which are so appealing at the start of the season and she had no fault to find with the price charged for extra fancy at that time. But she pointed to the Mac which has been held in storage for several months and then sent out to the trade. Twenty-four hours after it is on the retailer's counter it could hardly be passed for cee grade, she contended, and yet it remains at an extra fancy price.

Miss Middleton endeavors to teach the housewife the varieties to use for certain occasions. She draws to their attention that Transcendent crabapples, for instance, are best used with other fruits for jellies and they should wait for the Hyslops to make the straight crabapple jelly. She also stresses that grades as well as varieties have their own particular uses.

"My task is to 'revive the home makers,'" continued Miss Middleton. "If there is a better understanding between the producer and the consumer then we can solve a lot of problems. A lot of misunderstandings arise concerning certain industries and I want to know both sides."

Speaks in Valley
Miss Middleton spoke to the Vernon Rotary Club on Monday, came to Kelowna on Tuesday and spoke at Oliver on Wednesday. Today, Thursday, she will visit Penticton and return to Kelowna on Friday. Saturday will be spent at the Dominion Experimental Station at Summerland.

C. A. Hayden, secretary of the B.C. Fruit Growers Association and A. K. Lloyd and Dave McNair of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. were helpful in supplying Miss Middleton with a wealth of information concerning the fruit and vegetable industry.

Following her talk to Rotary in Kelowna, Gordon Herbert asked her if there wasn't a demand for bulk apples on the prairies. Her reply was that shipping in bulk causes more bruising and that housewives are more particular in their demands for quality.

"They are not demanding bulk apples," declared Miss Middleton. "But I would like to point out that retailers should be made to sell your product for what it is." She intimated that Lambert cherries from B.C. are passed off many times for Bing cherries.

Mr. Herbert continued his questioning and suggested that before Christmas the consumer demand on the prairies is for a cheaper product for cooking and it need not have the fancy trimmings.

Miss Middleton replied that that might be true for cooking apples.

C. A. Hayden introduced Miss Middleton and she was thanked by Dr. I. A. C. Pantion, chairman of program committee for October.

PENTICTON URGES COMPLETION OF HOPE-PRINCETON

Board of Trade and Rotary Club
Hear Speakers Tell of Reasons for Need of Highway Link

Urgent need of completion of the Hope-Princeton gap was indicated at the meeting of the Penticton board of trade on Wednesday night, September 27. Reason for the urgency was given as the fact that the entire interior of the province might easily be cut off should anything happen to the Fraser canyon.

The agency gained weight it was pointed out by the fact that no one at the present time knows exactly what route is going to be taken. Consequently Canada, and particularly the western provinces, might be an object of attack by air. Also sabotage in the canyon might be an easy matter should the highway route be taken. The intention would be to cut off the province from the rest of the country.

Addressing the Penticton Rotary club on Monday, H. T. Griffiths gave the members some new slants on the possibilities of the Hope-Princeton road. He also cleared up several "objections" that had been raised to the project by some quarters.

He stressed the three routes available to motorists now. Via Kamloops and Fraser Canyon, from Penticton, 440 miles; via Merritt and Spenceville, 370 miles; via the U.S.A., 500

MUSEUM GROUP TO HOLD GENERAL MEETING SOON

Okanagan Museum and Archives Association to be Revived—Want Home for Curios

Within a short period a general meeting of the Okanagan Museum & Archives Association will be held in Kelowna. It was intimated following a local directors meeting held on Thursday evening. This organization was formed in 1937, but due to several circumstances has not held any further general meetings nor has it been very active.

On Thursday, the Kelowna directors of the association gathered and included Mayor O. L. Jones, A. K. Loyd, F. M. Buckland, Dr. B. F. Boyce, E. R. Bailey, R. G. Rutherford and Chairman Dave Chapman.

F. M. Buckland informed the meeting the collection of curios of the late M. P. Williams, Winfield, had been donated to the association and are now on display at the Okanagan Union Library headquarters on Bernard avenue in Kelowna. Glassed-in shelves have been provided by the association at the library for the purpose of exhibiting Okanagan curios and relics.

Considerable discussion arose as to the possibility of providing a proper museum space in Kelowna for the protection and display of valuable curios and Dr. B. F. Boyce considered that the city should be approached to provide the necessary housing facilities.

Mayor O. L. Jones replied that if it can be proved there are sufficient exhibits available, then the city will provide housing for them.

Chairman Dave Chapman was instructed to call a general meeting shortly, when directors and those interested from many points in the Okanagan will be invited.

R. G. Rutherford was selected as secretary pro-tem until a permanent secretary could be appointed.

The Okanagan Museum & Archives Association has now been incorporated as an association under the societies act.

not take any initiative," was based, it is said, on knowledge gained from foreign minister Ciano on his return from Berlin that "the peace planned by Hitler is such as the Allies would not consider."

France's way with "peace-makers" along Nazi lines was shown by arrest of two persons and inquiry into 29 others who endorsed a plea for "immediate peace". Repressive measures were also taken against 43 Communist deputies who urged Moscow-endorsed peace terms.

On the other hand Lord Snell, labor peer, in the House of Lords supported Lloyd George's appeal of Tuesday that Britain should be ready to listen to "real proposals for peace". In reply, Lord Halifax said these must be considered in relation to their conditions, their sponsors and their security.

The foreign secretary added in reference to the Turk-Soviet parleys in Moscow that "we certainly should always be glad to see friendly relations maintained between the two great neighbors Russia and Turkey which we believe need not in any way conflict with the closest cooperation between us and Turkey."

Lord Cecil said "it would be impossible to accept peace involving the recognition of the conquest of Poland, but I do not feel quite sure if it is enough simply to say we won't have that and say no more. It would be a great pity if we made no alternative proposals of our own."

Although speculation of what Hitler would say ran the gamut, diplomatic sources predicted his harangue would be merely a repetition of his vague recent attacks on Britain. It was suggested that, in view of the Italian attitude, he would declare Moscow and Berlin had already proffered terms of peace and that they had been refused.

Chief interest was bent not on what Hitler would say, but on what he might do immediately afterwards. The night forecasts in this ranged from bombing raids on London to a gigantic thrust through Belgium or the Netherlands on France. Such action would end many days of quiet on the western front. Last night's French communique said merely that there were "patrols and ambushes" on various parts of the front and that a German raid south of Pirmasens was repelled.

Brought to the Port of Dingle by the German submarine which sank their ship, 28 members of the crew of the 4,000-ton Greek steamer Danatoli said the ship was destroyed by three torpedoes.

Press reports said the U-boat came up in open daylight to a pier at Dingle County Derry, with the survivors of the neutral ship, as if it was an ordinary transport boat with a load of passengers. The submarine crew waved a greeting to those on the pier and the latter waved back cheerfully. After halting its passengers it drew off again. Six of the survivors were apparently injured.

In contrast the Hope-Princeton road could be only 200 miles from Penticton to Vancouver. Of the 42,111 persons going through the Okanagan country by road, 90 per cent are either going to or coming from Vancouver, which would mean a direct loss of $23,025 to the provincial government from gasoline tax alone apart from hotel and cafe bills.

The road already built is in good condition despite any work having been done on it for some time. It is mostly in open country with full exposure to the south. Consequently, there would be little or no snow blocking, he said.

McNair Tells Vernon Board of Trade History of Single Selling Agency Operations of First Three Months

Shipped 2,800 Cars of Fruit and Vegetables in That Time, Sales Manager for Tree Fruits Relates—Largest Cherry Crop and One of Biggest Peach Crops Have Been Marketed—Makes Vigorous Plea for Support of New Marketing Setup—Is Applauded for Comprehensive Review of Fruit Situation

A REPORT on the work of B.C. Tree Fruits Limited in the first three months of operation was made before members of the Vernon Board of Trade in the Chateau Cafe last Friday evening, when David McNair, sales manager of the organization, was invited as the guest speaker.

After laying emphasis on the earlier difficulties that had confronted the new movement, in token of reduced Imperial preference and revised duty applications, Mr. McNair said that an even further problem, the grim one of war, had now come.

A report on the work of B.C. Tree Fruits Limited in the first three months of operation was made before members of the Vernon Board of Trade in the Chateau Cafe last Friday evening, when David McNair, sales manager of the organization, was invited as the guest speaker.

After laying emphasis on the earlier difficulties that had confronted the new movement, in token of reduced Imperial preference and revised duty applications, Mr. McNair said that an even further problem, the grim one of war, had now come.

But there were also, he added, certain gleams of hope, such as governmental assistance at this time of crisis, a bigger buying power on the prairies, and an aroused support generally.

And as for the past three months, he submitted, a fine record had been established. As the large attendance at the meeting applauded his comments, Mr. McNair reviewed certain facts.

Put Out 2,800 Cars
"In the short space of three months we have put through our office over 2,800 cars. We have marketed the largest cherry crop on record, bringing back a net price per pound to the producer equivalent to the returns obtained from a crop only two thirds the size in 1938. We have marketed a crop of apricots in excess of 200,000 cases at a slightly increased return to the producer. We have brought back a return for the Transcendents and Duchesne crops which will work out more favorably than what the grower has had in the past few years. We will produce a greater return for Hyslops than has been secured for some years past. As big a crop of peaches as the valley ever knew has all been sold. We have also cleaned a crop in excess of 100,000 packages of Bartlett pears which will show a return appreciably better than a year ago. We are well along with the marketing of Wealthies and during the current week will have moved by tomorrow night over 500 cars of McIntosh mixtures—one of the best opening flights in our history, and in face of the fact that we have the eastern market barred to us."

The speaker's message was given over to many factual details in the first part, and concluded with a most vigorous plea for support of the new marketing effort—"for the good of us all here in the valley, at a time of very real crisis."

It was, said Mayor Harry Bowman at the conclusion, "the best address on fruit matters I ever heard in 35 years in the valley, in fact I think it was better than all the rest I've heard put together."

After being introduced by President Evarard Clarke, Mr. McNair told the Board of Trade that it was the first public speech he was making since he assumed his office three months ago, and he was pleased to do so in his "home town."

Estimated Production
Canada's estimated production this season is 16 million bushels. Of these 7½ millions are accounted for by Nova Scotia; 2 millions by Ontario, half a million by Quebec and 5½ millions in British Columbia. Ever since the original Empire Agreement at Ottawa, the Nova Scotia crop has found its market in Great Britain, leaving the markets of Quebec, Ontario, and Western Canada, open to the production of those areas, and these three provinces also had the means of disposing of their crop through such outlets as they could find in exports.

"In 1920 we had production of a million and a half boxes," Mr. McNair explained. "At that time the population of our primary market, the prairies, was 2½ million. Our production in 1938 reached 5½ million boxes and the population in that primary market had not increased. Consequently we are trying to pour into the prairies 3½ times as many apples as we produced altogether twenty years ago. Not only that but the buying power of our prospective consumer was greatly reduced. A census taken as late as May of this year revealed that there were 500,000 on relief. This will serve to illustrate to you the marketing problem which concerns the Okanagan."

The five year Ottawa Empire Trade Agreement has been the one thing that has made it possible to even continue the production of apples in British Columbia. The speaker asserted, however, last spring a major change came about by the signing of the Canada U.S. Empire Trade Treaty. This not only reduced the preference which Canada enjoyed with Great Britain from 40 cents to 27 cents an apple, but it also shortened the periods during which dump duty protection was granted Canadian producers on all other varieties of fruit. On years last year the dump duty applied for 20 weeks as against 10 weeks under the new agreement, "and by dump duty we mean that the Canadian product was protected to the extent of 40 cents per box. We were facing these new conditions regardless of the occurrence of the war."

Review War Results
Now today restricted steamship facilities are depriving Canada of bottom-toms for the movement of her apple crop to Great Britain. Neutral shipping operating out of the Pacific have been ordered into neutral ports. Many British ships which previously carried apples have been drawn into other services by the government. Insurance rates have advanced. Ocean rates have gone up one-third. The British pound has dropped to $4.25. Nova Scotia who formerly transported the bulk of her crop by tramp steamers can no longer use these due to the impracticability of conveying. All this means that the Canadian market was threatened with having large quantities of apples thrown on it, which in the regular course of events would have gone export.

Mr. McNair then reviewed the remedial steps that have been taken by the government as a consequence of this situation. This program, he pointed out, had already been revealed extensively in the valley press.

"Every effort has been made to interest the canning and preserving plants in this province, all without success; and the disposal of the balance of this crop does not look at all hopeful."

During operation, "we have built up a good-will between British Columbia and the distributor, and the retailer. We have received many complimentary letters vouching for the improvement which has taken place in the quality of the British Columbia fruit day than has been the case for several years past. With the exception of tomatoes, claims due to deterioration and bad condition have been the lowest in the history of this valley. As an illustration: out of 104,000 boxes of Bartlett pears we have only had three small claims which would not exceed $100."

The cost of operation is not an additional cost to what the grower has paid heretofore, Mr. McNair also emphasized. "We have simply taken over certain functions which the shipper has performed, and there will be no increased deduction as the result of our existence. It is important that these should be particularly understood by all businessmen and growers."

As To The Future
The decision must finally rest with the grower. It is the grower who is delivering his crop to the shipper, which is virtually handing his pocket book over to a second party. Consequently he is the man who should have the say as to how the disposal of his crop is to be arranged, "and there are two very important factors in this; the growers must say it with one voice, and it is imperative that it be backed by effective legislation."

So far the speaker declared only the "outer fringe" of rationally controlled selling through a central medium, has been touched.

"Competition within British Columbia producers has in the past contributed to demoralizing of prices, has engendered a marathon effort among growers of picking before the product was ready for market so as to beat the other fellow has entered to all classes of outlets indiscriminately and has not always put up the class of product that is becoming to our industry. These inequities could only be overcome by concentrated effort by the producer and while there are many phases of fruit production in British Columbia that look rather dark at the same time the lot of the producer can be bettered if the problem are faced as an industry and not as individuals and the sooner the Okanagan learns this the sooner they will be on the way to getting better returns from the agricultural as it is successful agriculture that matters."

"There are 3,500 growers in British Columbia whose primary homes and livelihood depend upon the fruit industry. In turn your success or failure as businessmen hinges on the success or failure of agriculture. It therefore behooves all of us when we are discussing the fruit problem and expressing opinions on it that instead of being critical as is the popular thing, to let us aim to be constructive," the speaker concluded.

provincial government assistance. In the meantime, Tree Fruits has been endeavouring to find new avenues through which the prune surplus may be disposed. To date, no satisfactory result has been obtained. Hon. Asselstine and Hon. K. C. MacDonald minister of agriculture, have been petitioned again for assistance in the emergency. The latter official is cognizant of the situation and is anxious to be of any assistance possible, he stated here last week.

An offer was made to New Zealand this week of 500 tons of onions if Auckland and plus war risk insurance. This offer was turned down. It is believed New Zealand has only purchased 600 tons of onions this year against 2,000 tons last year.

Stress Food Wastage
At Tuesday morning's board of trade meeting in Kelowna it was the consensus of opinion that the angle of food wastage should be stressed. It was agreed that by itself the surplus is a provincial problem, but harking back to the war days of 1914-1918 it was recalled that there was a surplus of prunes and such a surplus of prunes and onions an exists now would have been greatly appreciated in those days. It was thought by the trade board members that no stone should be left unturned to find a method of utilizing this surplus.

Consequently Hon. W. J. Asselstine was wired again on Tuesday as follows: "Re our wire September 27. No reply received. Agricultural supply board, Ottawa, takes definite stand this is matter for provincial government. Board of trade here not so much concerned with market for surplus but quite urgently asks action to eliminate waste. Plants here anxious to help but want some guarantee from government to assist in finding market for dehydrated onions and canned prunes. Submit government could step in and control situation to prevent waste of needed produce for war emergency."

Experiments with processing prunes for the dried prune market have been carried on in the Okanagan within the past few days, with the supplies available, with some success.

Coffee Cup Admirals

Poetry and Fiction Seal
The Fate of Big Liner

It all happened over Harry Chapin's coffee cups.

The war had been fought on all fronts and victory brought to the Allies on land, sea and air. Everything was going fine until some inconsiderate soul dropped the Bremen into the discussion.

Thereupon her fate was settled and it was this way:

The Bremen is reported to be faster than most of the ships of the British navy. When she left New York she proceeded to run away from the British war craft and a couple of planes were sent after her. She was ordered to stop but kept right on going and a couple of well placed bombs ended her career.

Some of the survivors were picked up and were landed in England last week. Remember the report that some prisoners were landed and said to be "from submarines?" But it is not often that there are prisoners from subs and so these men must have been from some other ship and what ship could it be but the Bremen?

And why has it all been kept a big, dark secret? Simply because the Admiralty was a little reluctant to admit that the great ship had been sent to the bottom by bombs as she was too fast for most of the war craft.

That is the story which was dished up over the coffee cups. Bill Bredin was an entranced listener and added a touch or two of his own. In fact he had an idea it should be told in poetry. He wracked his brains for something to rhyme with "Bremen". A couple of meals later he burst forth with this effusion. Read it at your own peril:

"Oh, where! Oh, where is the Bremen?"

Which sailed from New York with some men on?

Is she sunk, caught or free,

Or still on the sea?

The answer, of course, is a lemon."

RUTLAND SCHOOL DISTRICT ELECTS TWO TRUSTEES

C. Montgomery and Mrs. Axel Eutin Chosen at Annual Meeting—Object to Trustees Qualifications in Act

The special meeting of qualified voters of the Rutland school district, held in one of the classrooms of the new school on Thursday evening, September 28th, was not largely attended. C. Montgomery, who has been acting trustee during the interim since the resignation of Trustees Axel Eutin and Mrs. S. Dudgeon, was elected to the chair. Nomination for trustees resulted in the election of C. Montgomery for a three-year term, and Mrs. A. Eutin for a one year term, both by acclamation.

Mr. Percy Stockley raised the subject of the qualifications for trustees and strongly criticised the clause in the school act which requires a qualified voter to have all taxes paid up to the end of the preceding calendar year in order to hold office. By this restriction, over two hundred voters whose names appear on the assessment roll are disqualified from holding office, and many who are eligible are absent owners or owners of very small holdings with low assessment values. After some discussion a resolution, moved by A. W. Gray and seconded by P. Stockley urging that the qualifications for trustees be changed to coincide with those required to be eligible for voting was unanimously adopted.

There being no further business to transact, Mr. D. H. Campbell, who had acted as secretary for the meeting, read the minutes which were forthwith adopted, and the meeting adjourned.

The sympathy of all resident of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Granger and family in their recent sad bereavement.

The community hall was well filled by an audience of young people, and quite a number of adults, on Saturday evening, September 30th, to view the fine program of movies shown by the representative of the Canadian Forestry Association on the occasion of his annual visit to the district. In addition to interesting forestry films there were several films of a topical nature and some comics.

J. Diebert, of Avonlea, Sask., is a visitor to the district, staying at the home of his daughter Mrs. John Holisky.

The playing of the Rutland ball team's play-off games in the Kelowna Park has emphasised the need for getting the diamond in Rutland's new recreation park in shape for use next season. It is planned to have a "bee" as soon as the busy season is over to clear the rocks and sods from the field, level it up and seed it. Ball-players and fans are requested to hold themselves in readiness to help in this work when the time comes. With the grounds in shape Rutland will have a ball park second to none in the interior.

Kamloops Growers Threaten to Break Away From Fruit Board Control

Divergence of Opinion at Meeting as to Remedy for Main Line Situation—W. E. Haskins Tells of Board Actions

W. E. Haskins, chairman of the B.C. Fruit Board, in speaking to a meeting of the Kamloops board of trade in Kamloops on Monday, September 25, called at the request of J. Kelly, representing the fruit growers of that district, to discuss the advisability of applying for exclusion of the control of B.C. Fruit Board, stated: "We are always getting scolded for the advantages that Kamloops is given."

Mr. Haskins went on to say, in reply to Major A. E. McElligott that of the two hundred odd regulations made by the board each year there are only two that apply to the Kamloops district. One is that shippers must have a licence, and the second that no fruit be marketed until the board makes its initial release.

The first regulation, of course, meets no opposition, Mr. Haskins stated, but that is because it is so reasonable that no one could possibly object to it. The second and only other ruling that the board makes for the Kamloops district is that the apples be held until the release date is set.

"This is the only district that is given exemption to these rules," Mr. Haskins stated, "and it is a funny thing that you object even to this."

The initial speaker of the evening, Major McElligott, spoke strongly in favor of Kamloops being released from the "arbitrary control" of the B.C. Fruit Board. His main contention was that the fruit in the Kamloops district was mature from two to three weeks earlier than that of the Okanagan, and that despite this natural advantage the Kamloops district was denied the right to take advantage of this early market but instead was forced to hold its fruit until the Okanagan fruit was mature and then sell at a market price of from ten to fifteen cents a box less.

In the meantime, he stated, a large amount of the fruit has either fallen off the trees or that which has been picked spoils in the boxes. He pointed out that the Kamloops problem is a singular one in that the Kamloops district does not produce sufficient fruit to make a storage plant a profitable investment.

J. H. Kelley then took the floor to state that every grower in the district was in favor of exemption from board control. "If control goes on we're busted," he concluded.

Mr. Haskins replied to these remarks by outlining the principal of the act, then went on to state that Kamloops has always been given every consideration possible. "In fact," he said, "I am continually being scolded by Okanagan growers who feel that we favor Kamloops too much."

"Actually, the Kamloops district is not ahead of the Okanagan, Oliver or part of the Penitence districts," he stated, "and if you people are allowed to ship your fruit early, so must these other districts."

He went on to point out that it takes 300,000 boxes to fill the orders for the first flight and that altogether the Kamloops district only produces some forty thousand boxes so that they must be held until there is enough mature fruit to fill the orders for the initial flight. "If you abolish control you won't even get the price of the box back," he concluded.

R. H. Carson, M.L.A. for Kamloops district, stated that there must be some way of discerning the state of maturity of the fruit and suggested that control by the federal inspectors would prevent glutting the market with immature fruit.

It was pointed out that the inspectors were unable to determine the exact date of maturity and that this method of control when tried had not been satisfactory.

T. J. O'Neill, M.P., stated that he was not in favor of an open market and stated that the chief difficulty seemed to lie in the fact that Kamloops had no storage facilities. He went on to say that the government is willing to subsidize storage plants to the extent of thirty per cent.

At the conclusion of the meeting it was decided, on a suggestion by Mr. Carson, to set up a committee of one grower, one member of the B.C. Fruit Board and the federal and provincial members to sit with the agricultural committee of the Kamloops board of trade to find a solution of the problem.

Building Tiles Being Manufactured In Orchard City for First Time

Haug & Son Plant Here Operating to Capacity to Supply Tile for Kelowna Hospital

One of the oldest established commercial plants in Kelowna has this year branched forth into a new line of endeavor, for Haug & Son has branched into the production of building tile for the first time. Many experiments were necessary before the proper mixture could be obtained, but now the operation has been proved successful and thousands of building tile are being manufactured.

It was in 1906 that the first brick plant started operating but it was not until 1921 that the present company of Haug & Son took over the manufacture of bricks.

This is a new venture for the Interior of B.C., and at present the plant is operating to capacity producing building tiles for the new Kelowna general hospital unit.

This plant has provided employment for twelve to fifteen men from March and it is anticipated that now building tile can be manufactured in a whole-sale quantity that a market will be developed throughout the Interior, rather than allow supplies to be brought in from Coast centres.

In time, this plant may be built into a much bigger concern employing more Kelowna labor.

It is estimated that twenty million bricks have been manufactured in this plant since its start 33 years ago. There is enough clay available to supply the demand for the next 200 years, Gordon Haug states. Each brick or tile requires 3½ pounds of clay and the maximum output with the present equipment is 3,000 bricks or tiles per day.

These pieces of clay and sand must be placed in the kilns for eight days and must reach temperatures of 1,900 to 2,100 degrees Fahrenheit before they are properly baked.

DEPRECATES FAULTS IN CAR LOADINGS

Fruit Board Cargo Inspector Tells of Malpractices Here

Faulty car loadings were reported to the B.C. Fruit Board recently by W. J. C. Tait, cargo inspector for the board at Vancouver. In each instance, he says, a considerable amount of damage was done to the fruit, which must result in lessened returns. In each case the board has passed on Mr. Tait's report to the shipper concerned.

In a circular dated September 22, the fruit board quotes Mr. Tait as follows: "I have written you in one or two instances re the method of placing braces in the centre of cars of fruit. The S.S. Gregalia took about fifteen cars of apples and pears from New Westminster and in nearly every car 1 in. by 6 in. boards were nailed on to the boxes of fruit so that a number of cases had nails driven as much as 1½ inches into the fruit. It becomes somewhat more difficult to have longshoremen take the necessary care with fruit when such actions are taken by the shippers themselves. Moreover, a number of ships are taking note in their refrigerator log books of this practice."

It is a simple matter to put a type of brace in a car which does not necessitate the driving of any nails into the cases, and I am of the opinion that a circular letter should be sent to the various shippers so that the practice would be stopped.

What profits is a nation to get rid of firecrackers and boat rockers only to get reckless automobile drivers?

INKAMEEP RESERVE CHIEF PASSES AT AGE OF 93 YEARS

Chief Baptiste George was Born in Okanagan and Remembers Early White Miners, Traders

A link with the past has been definitely broken by the death of Chief Baptiste George who passed away at his home on the Inkameep Reserve near Oliver, on Sunday, September 24, aged 93 years. He is survived by his widow, who was Cecilia Gregoire, daughter of former Chief Gregoire, who died in 1907, when Baptiste George was elected chief of the band; other survivors are—two sons Narcisse Baptiste, one brother Joseph George, 11 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Born in the Okanagan Valley ninety-three years ago, he grew to manhood and remembered the early white miners and traders, and the pack-horse trains of the Hudson's Bay Company. He then saw great herds of cattle come into the Valley and through working with Judge Haynes, he commenced to build up his own herd. He also acquired the habits of the white man in horticulture and most of the Indian people had small orchards here long before there were others in the district.

During the many years he was Chief, he ruled his people wisely and well. He had a great admiration for Queen Victoria and the Royal family and was awarded the Jubilee medal by the late King George V for his loyalty and devotion.

When Lord Dunsborough, then Governor-General of Canada, visited Oliver in 1932, he was accompanied by his secretary, Capt. Eric Lancelotti, who noticed a long staff carried by the Chief, on which there was an inscribed silver plate, and asked where he got it. The Captain was informed that it was a gift from Her Majesty Queen Victoria for services rendered by the Chief and his band in time of need.

He brought about a new departure in Indian Education by building his own day school and employing his own teacher, as he did not want his children to go away to a big residential school.

He was an outstanding orator in the Okanagan tongue and those white people who have been privileged to hear him speak, will always retain the memory of a very vital man with silver hair, a clear, expressive voice, and eloquent hands.

Then there was the enthusiastic golfer who wrote to the rock manufacturer "Fifteen minutes after putting on a pair of your socks I made a hole in one."

Kelowna Detachment of B.C. Women's Service Club Formed at Enthusiastic Meeting in Aquatic Lounge Room

More Than Two Hundred Women Endorse Plan of Auxiliary Military Service for This District—Miss Marion Elmore Chosen Chief Commandant—Mrs. O. France is Senior Commandant in Charge of Training

FORMATION of the Kelowna detachment of the B.C. Women's Service Club, which is based on the same principles as the Auxiliary Territorial Service in the Old Country, was made effective on Sunday afternoon at the Aquatic lounge room in Kelowna when more than two hundred women from the Kelowna district signified their interest in forming an auxiliary women's service organization in this time of war stress.

This Kelowna detachment is the eighth to be formed in the province since the origin of the movement in Victoria in August, 1938. Vernon women formed the seventh group on Saturday and Kelowna the eighth on Sunday. These are the only two detachments in the interior to date, but it is anticipated that others will follow the lead of these two Okanagan cities.

The main purpose of the women's service club is to form an auxiliary unit in British Columbia to achieve recognition under military supervision. Mrs. Norman R. Kennedy, Victoria, one of the organizers from that city told the Kelowna women on Sunday. With Mrs. Kennedy was Mrs. C. Hugo Rayment, also of Victoria, who originated the idea in the capital city.

Auxiliary Work

The women's service club will undertake all branches of auxiliary work which women are capable of doing. Mrs. Kennedy stated and proceeded to outline the four main categories into which this work falls.

First on the list is army clerical work. Then there is military transport work which includes elementary mechanics, map reading and signals. First aid is an important part of the service club work, and stretcher drill, hygiene, and sanitation are taught in this department. The last of the four groups is the commissariat which includes instruction in dietetics, food values and ordering and dispensing of equipment.

Women from 18 years upwards who are physically capable may become members of the B.C. Women's Service Club, it was explained, as long as they are British subjects.

Approval of the minister of national defence to the formation of this service club has been given. Mrs. Kennedy continued, while Lt.-Col. G. C. Osell, Officer Commanding the B.C. Dragoons has approved of the formation.

Jacket Vogue Makes Dinner Dresses More Popular

Black Velvet Dinner Dress

This winter the dinner dress competes with the dinner suit, partially because of the vogue for the separate jacket or short coat of fur. Here is a graceful model in black velvet, the high neck finished with an embroidered necklace of gold and silver and pearl. The same embroidery trims the sleeve edge. By means of circular sewing on each side of the bodice, the waist is nipped in, with gathers giving fullness to the bodice and to the skirt at sides and back. It has a very slight train and buttons in back to the waist.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Gray, of Winnipeg, were visitors in Kelowna over the week-end.

Mrs. L. A. Murray, of Mirror, Alta., is a visitor in Kelowna this week.

TALENTED ENGLISH WOMAN TO SPEAK TO CANADIAN CLUB

Mrs. Conway Evans Lectures on "The Royal Thames" at Opening Meeting of Fall Season

First Canadian Club meeting of the fall season is scheduled for Wednesday, October 11, and will be in the form of a supper meeting at the Royal Anne hotel. Mrs. Conway Evans, of England, a gifted speaker with a wealth of knowledge gained from extensive travel will be the guest speaker.

Mrs. Evans' subject will be "The Royal Thames," and this subject is expected to prove of special interest following the visit to Canada last spring of Their Majesties. She is a keen student of British history and will show pictures of royal families and residences along the Thames river.

At the last general quarterly meeting of the Kelowna Board of Trade considerable discussion arose from statements made by Mayor O. L. Jones, concerning the board's attitude toward the alleged payment of less than minimum wages to the workers on the Canadian National barge construction.

On Tuesday morning, October 3, the Kelowna Board of Trade executive heard letters from the shipyard supervisor at Prince Rupert and from W. T. Moodie, C. N. superintendent which stated definitely that neither the board of trade or any other board or person had ever intimated to the shipbuilders that a wage scale lower than the minimum wage should be adopted.

sonality and is an experienced and capable speaker. She is on a trip round the world and consented to speak to Canadian Clubs in western Canada while travelling across this Dominion.

JOHN NEWTON TAKES Y.P.S. ON LONG JAUNT

Mental Visits to Arabia, India, and Far East Taken as Travel of Merchant Ship Described

A mental visit to Arabia, India, and the Far East was made by the Young People's Society of the United Church when John Newton, a Kelowna youth who went by merchant ship to the Orient, spoke to the members on Sunday evening, October 1.

The Mediterranean sea reminded Mr. Newton of the Okanagan in its similarity of calm, sunny weather. The 100-mile-long Suez Canal which will be seventy years old next month is in the midst of desolate sand wastes as far as the eye can see with some camel trains slowly bearing their cargoes in the distance.

Mount Sinai, of Egypt, where Moses received the Ten Commandments while in the wilderness with the Children of Israel was viewed and can be seen only while passing through a mile-long route. It is far in the distance east from the Red Sea's Gulf of Suez.

An amazing drought exists at Aden, the British coaling station town of 50,000 across from Ethiopia, no rain having fallen since 1916 and is unbearably hot on its sandy, rocky site. Near here the average temperature for the year is 103 and winds are so warm that windows on the ship are closed to have comparative comfort.

Endless loadings of cartons of tea was seen while stopping at Ceylon's capital of Colombo, of Winnipeg's size. The Indian ocean and China seas are notorious for disastrous typhoons and raging monsoons, his ship encountering two typhoons, one almost totally damaging the cargo. A waterspout drawn up by a whirlwind almost engulfed the vessel.

Hong Kong's wealthy Oriental and European residents live on the mountain of the island city and it appears that one's riches are in proportion to the height of dwelling on the hill. A train travels to the usually cloud-enveloped peak at an angle of forty degrees, which he ascended but came down on the spiral highway.

Clannishness is apparent in European sections of Chinese cities such as in Hankow of 800,000 population, the various colonies keeping to themselves. Several foreign warships are always present to safeguard their financial interests and residents abroad. British forces have shallow draft boats that cruise over the river. Near the mouths of these rivers the stores are sometimes out of sight.

Huge department stores as in Yokohama and Kobe, of Japan accent the westernization of business districts but in some instances the salesgirls wear the native kimonos and clog-shoes.

The British fortification-bristling naval base of Singapore of 350,000 persons is an expansively-populated city. No armaments are visible from a ship except two guns. Tin-smelting, fruit-canning, rubber preparation, and coal-loading are important.

Anxious to hear English spoken on returning to London, the first three groups of persons he heard talking were speaking French and German and believing he was certain to hear English spoken he attended a theatre but it was a German talking picture and he doubted if he was really in England.

Miss Pauline Engel, president, thanked the speaker.

During the first 10 months of 1938 the world consumed 168,000,000 pounds of nickel in all forms.

We doubt if any one with a sense of humor can write a really good love letter.

On Monday night, the Canadian Forestry Association presented a series of moving pictures, which were both educational and entertaining. People were asked to take every precaution against forest fires, which cause such heavy losses every year.

The junior forest wardens, James Tasker, George Strang and Geoffrey Johnson, took up a silver collection which amounted to about $8.00.

The Tennis Club held a farewell party for Miss Betty Curtice who has gone to Duncan. Miss Curtice was presented with a handbag and gloves in appreciation of the active part she has taken in all club activities.

ELDERLY LADY DIES AT RUTLAND AFTER TEN YEARS THERE

Mrs. Abbie Loomis Granger Passes Away—Born in New York State Eighty Years Ago

At the Rutland nursing home on Friday, September 29, there passed away Mrs. Abbie Loomis Granger, at the advanced age of eighty years. Born in Watertown, New York state, the late Mrs. Granger spent the last twenty-two years of her life in Canada, the first twelve in Saskatchewan and the final ten in Rutland.

Her early years were spent in Watertown, and the memories of those pleasant days were with her to the last. She lived an active, Christian life and was superintendent of the Congregational Sunday school in a locality known as South Champion, N.Y., for many years. Oddly enough, the post office there had the same name as the place where she ended her days, namely Rutland.

Deceased was also once a member of Grange and Macabce lodges and was frequently called on in the neighborhood of South Champion to assist in social work and nursing, which she was always only too willing to do.

In Rutland, as long she was able she was a member of the Rutland United Church Women's Association and was associated with the work of the church.

She was the wife of Alfred Granger, who predeceased her two years ago. She leaves to mourn her passing, her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Granger and four grandchildren, Evelyn, Trail; Elsie, Penttich; Laura and Bill, of Rutland; and four great grandchildren.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon from Day's Funeral Home, with Rev. A. C. Pound, of Rutland, officiating. Many lovely floral tributes expressed the sympathy of the entire community.

Philbrowers were George Fletcher, Robert Ritchie, E. Muggford, R. P. Hughes, William Hardie and R. J. New-son.

OKANAGAN MISSION

Fishing off the rocks in the Mission bay has been good lately and should improve with the cooler weather; no very big fish have been taken so far on a surface troll but the shore run of kokanee can be expected in the next few days which should bring the heavy fellows up.

Growers are now busy with Jonathans, while in a few instances a start has been made on Delicous.

Harold Willett left on Sunday for Vancouver.

B. E. Crichton returned on Tuesday, September 20th, from Halcyn Hot Springs in the Arrow lake district, where he has been spending a short holiday.

E. Dodd of East Kelowna has recently acquired the lakeshore property formerly owned by the late L. Simcoe.

KELOWNA WOMAN'S FATHER PASSES

Roderick Cameron Purves Had been Resident of Valley 30 Years

Roderick Cameron Purves, for well over 30 years a resident of the North Okanagan, was called by death in the Vernon Jubilee Hospital on Saturday at the age of 72.

Mr. Purves was well known throughout this district and in Okanagan Centre. When he first came to the Valley he settled at the Centre where he was engaged in farming while during his years of residence in Vernon he was engaged in the building business.

Mr. Purves was born in Lucknow, Ontario, on March 24, 1867 and 25 years later he married Miss Ellen Borland at Ashfield, in the County of Huron, Ontario.

Some years later they came to the Okanagan Valley where Mr. Purves settled on a ranch at Okanagan Centre. Twenty one years later he retired and moved to Vancouver in 1924.

The call of the Okanagan was too strong, however, and a few years later they returned to settle in Ver in which they made their future home. Here Mr. Purves once more entered the contracting trade and entered into partnership with H. J. Phillips, a business association which ended only this spring.

Mr. Purves was confined to hospital only a short time before his death and his passing came as a shock to his many friends here. While not active in any local organization, Mr. Purves was a well known member of the First Baptist Church.

Besides his wife, Mr. Purves is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ernest Lawley, of Hope, and Mrs. B. W. Johnston, of Kelowna.

The funeral service was conducted from the First Baptist Church, Vernon, on Monday afternoon with Rev. D. J. Rowland officiating.

Hares have long ears and long legs. They are born with a well-developed coat of fur, and with their eyes open.

It consists of a cabin and one half acre east of J. Bradley's property.

Miss Zoe Browne-Clayton returned home last week after spending the past year travelling in England, Ireland and France.

Sunday School at St. Andrew's Church is to be held at 2:15 p.m. instead of the usual morning hour next week, and Miss Franklin of East Kelowna will be in charge.
